Ten millions, old and young, are asking, "Why did I eat too much? And that measures our civilization. We shall not learn to think, until we at least learn how to eat, and not to eat too much.

African savages capture a hippopotamus, eat all their distended stomachs can hold, lie down beside the carcass, sleep, wake, eat more, sleep again, and so on.

Some die of ptomaine poisoning, as the meat gets bad, the survivors think they have had a good time, and give thanks to the pink nosed idol that they happen to worship.

We improve on the hippopotamus eaters, and the old Romans, with large marble receptacles, to which they returned food previously swallowed, that they might swallow more.

But our eating, like our thinking and our ideas of justice, are of an age 1,000 years behind our scientific age. We are nearer to cannibalism than to civilization. One-half the adults do not even know enough to protect their children from the effects of gorging.

Turkey, striving for western modernism, adopts the automobile hearses and Mohammedan corpses, bound for paradise, will hurry to the grave, as we do.

The next step will be the flying funeral, conveying some particular corpse to its chosen romantic rest on a distant mountain top.

You may read, in headlines of a future day, "Aristocratic millionaire funeral, bound for top of Mount McKinley, crashes; all hurt, except the corpse."

Churchill, interesting British statesman, grandson of Jerome, an American stock broker, confesses too much, when he admits that he "originated the idea of tanks in 1914."

The tank, as this writer pointed out, when it first appeared on the battlefield, as a great "mystery," was simply the American "caterpillar" tractor invented and manufactured in California, covered with armor and carrying machine guns, killing instead of doing useful work.

The mysterious tank was identified in this column as soon as it appeared, the writer having use the identical machine for pulling up trees and ditching swamp ground, before the war started.

Churchill might as well confess that he invented the automobile, flying machine, or dynamite—all used in the war.

AGED MOTHER AND DAUGHTER DIE IN BLAZE NEAR ALTOONA

Man Injured After Vain Attempt to Rescue Victims.

JUMPS THRU ROOF

Members of Another Family Escape From Dwelling.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 28.—Two persons perished in a fire which destroyed the double dwelling occupied by the families of John W. Wilson and Joseph C. Shade in Williamsburg, Pa., near here, today.

The victims were Mrs. Anna Wilson, 50, wife of John Wilson, and her mother, Mrs. Maria Slonaker, 84, who lived with the Wilsons.

Wilson, after trying in vain to rescue his wife and mother-in-law, jumped out of a second story window. In doing so, he plunged through a porch roof, being bruised as well as burned. He was taken to the Altoona hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical.

All members of the Shade family escaped unhurt. The cause of the fire is not known.

Alleged Hit-skip Motorist Will Pay Victim's Expenses

Christ Christman, West Fourth street potter, who is alleged to have run down and injured James McCullough, St. Clair avenue man, on Pennsylvania avenue, a week ago today, was arraigned before Mayor Brown, last evening, upon a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

Christman, at first, denied any knowledge of the accident, but two girls who were passengers in the car with him testified that they had told him he had struck McCullough, but he refused to stop. Christman agreed to pay the hospital and doctor bill of McCullough, who is suffering from fractures of the nose, arm and hand.

The charge is being held against Christman pending the complete recovery of his victim. He is at liberty on his own recognizance.

Meet Champion Caveman.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28.—Al Williams almost held the world's caveman record in these parts today. Police took him in tow for kicking O'Neill Simms, a woman, in the head, and for pitching Cora Haywood through a second story window. Cora took the sash with her and landed head first on the sidewalk below. The racket was said to have started at a drinking party.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28. — B. G. Burt, 42, of Jamestown, N. Y., established what is claimed to be a world's record here early this morning by continuously playing a piano for 52 hours and 20 minutes. He also won a side bet of $1,000.

Camilla Baucia, another contender, dropped out after playing 52 hours and 15 minutes.

MAYOR MARKS TIME ON PAY SLASH MEASURE

Brown Fails to Act on Ordinance at 2 p. m.

VETO PREDICTED

"I Have Not Had Time to Read it," Executive Says.

Mayor Charles Brown was marking time today, the last day of grace, on the councilmanic ordinance slashing Mayor-elect Ralph C. Benedum's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 a year.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the executive had taken no action on the proposal.

"I probably will take up the ordinance after 3 o'clock this afternoon," the mayor declared shortly before noon. "The ordinance has been on my desk since it was handed to me and I have not yet had an opportunity to read it but have definitely decided what I shall do with it."

Personal friends of the executive predict he will veto the measure. He is said to have confided to individuals that he is opposed to the legislation and will send it back to council with his veto. This is the tenth day that the enactment has been in his possession and he must either sign or veto it today or it automatically becomes a law without his signature.

If he vetoes the ordiance virtually all hopes of reducing the mayor's salary for at least two years is gone, inasmuch as no salary fixing legislation is permitted during a tenure of office.

The ordinance was adopted by a vote of 4 to 3. To pass it over the mayor's veto would require at least five votes, while six votes would be necessary to suspend the rules and pass it at one meeting. Even though one of the opponents should change his vote, the ordinance could not be passed in time to advertise it for 30 days before January 1.

Whitacre charges that several turkeys, a goose and a revolver were taken by several men who visited his home during his absence. Whitacre notified Sheriff Wright, who ordered the arrest of Jackson.

Jackson will be given a hearing at Lisbon Monday. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned here.

NINE INJURED WHEN BUILDING HOUSING DANCE CLUB CRUMBLES

Three Women and Six Men Buried Under Wreckage.

DIG OUT VICTIMS

New York Cabaret Habitues Plunge Into Deep Excavation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — Three women and six men were injured early today when a wall collapsed in a four-story building housing the Arena club, a cabaret. The victims were catapulated into a deep cellar excavation and buried under an avalanche of wreckage.

Police reserves held back thousands who gathered to watch firemen and police digging in the ruins for buried victims. Firemen said that the beam anchorages may have been weakened by blasting for the building next door and by the dancing of hundreds in the cabaret.

A repetition of the Pickwick club disaster in Boston was averted only by the fact that all the dancers had left the cabaret, police declared.

Man Supports Section of Building

Two heavy beams fell on Benjamin Sanders, a porter, breaking both of his legs. A piano which Miss Ruby Sunshine was playing fell almost on top of her. Miss Mazie Marshall, a dancer, was found under a beam she had clutched when the building crumbled. She sustained internal injuries.

When firemen arrived they found Frank Timpone on the second floor holding up a section of the building by a beam on his shoulder. He said he feared to let go because the whole building would fall on the others if he released his hold.

YULE TREES ON SIDEWALKS

Christmas Decorations Will be Arranged by Stores.

Decorated Christmas trees, some of them illuminated with electric lights, are to be erected on the sidewalks in front of the downtown stores during the yule shopping season.

Representatives of the Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, through the advertising committee, yesterday entered into a contract with Clarence E. West to furnish and decorate the trees. The trees will be placed in the flag sockets at the curbing. They will be in position not later than December 15.

This will be the first time in history that the merchants have adopted this plan of advertising.

The merchants' division will start its Christmas shopping campaign immediately. Fares will be refunded to out-of-town shoppers every shopping day in December prior to Christmas by the fare refunding association.

STOCKHOLDERS OF FIRST NATIONAL AND CITIZENS WILL VOTE UPON PLAN

Consolidation of Two Institutions, Which Has Been Given O. K. of Comptroller of Currency, is Subject to Approval at Meeting Called for Monday, December 28, Officials Announce.

ARRANGEMENT WILL BE EFFECTED AS OF JAN. 5, UNDER FIRST BANK'S NAME

Merging of Interests, Prompted by Fact That Citizens' Bank Has Outgrown Its Present Quarters, Will Give City $4,500,000 Institution Which Will be Housed in Fifth Street Home.

With the approval of the comptroller of the currency, arrangements are being made for a proposed merger of the First National and Citizens' National banks, it was announced today by officials of the two institutions.

The proposed consolidation, which is subject to the approval of the stockholders of both banks, will be voted upon at a stockholders' meeting on Monday, December 28.

The merger is to be effected as of January 5, 1926, and the business is to be conducted under the name and charter of the First National bank in the new home of that institution in Fifth street.

The combined interests of the two institutions will give East Liverpool a $4,500,000 bank.

Oldest and Largest Bank.

The Citizens' National bank found that it had outgrown its present banking home and decided that it was necessary either to build an entirely new banking building or remodel its present quarters, either of which projects involved a large expenditure of money, inconvenience to its patrons. The First National bank has a new bank building and modern equipment sufficient in every respect for the needs of both institutions.

The Directors, seeing the wisdom and advantage of a consolidation that would give Columbiana county one big banking institution without any addition construction expense, approved the plan.

The First National Bank, which was established in 1874, is not only the oldest but also the largest of East Liverpool's financial institutions. It has capital and surplus of $400,000, deposits of more than $2,800,00 and aggregate resources exceeding $3,500,000.

Citizens Founded In 1897

The Citizens' National, founded in 1897, has capital, surplus and profits of about $300,000, deposits of $700,000 and resources of more than $1,100,000.

Both institutions do a general banking business, handle individual checking accounts, pay four per cent interest on savings and supply safe deposit and foreign exchange service. Under authorization of the federal reserve board, the First National bank also maintains an active and growing trust department which is authorized and equipped to serve in all fiduciary capacities.

John J. Purinton is the president of the First National bank and John W. Vodrey is president of the Citizens' National bank.

Pool Room Operator Is Charged With Permitting Gambling

RIVER ROAD BUS LOOP MAY BE DISCONTINUED; UPPER ST. GEORGE STREET TERMINUS IS PROPOSED

The River Road bus will discontinue the Virginia avenue, Pennsylvania avenue, Mulberry street loop and will establish its East End terminus at the upper end of St. George street, under the terms of an ordinance, which Solicitor Harry Brokaw, was instructed to prepare by the municipal legislature body last night.

The change in the route, which has the approval of officials of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company will give better transportation facilities to all residents east of Mulberry street and south of the Pennsylvania railroad, council pointed out.

The plan will eliminate the Mulberry street railroad crossing. The bus, after leaving the River road, will travel along St. George street to the old McLean Tire company's plant, where it will turn and follow the same route back to the Diamond.

Few Passengers Transfer.

Councilman Kerr said that but few passengers transfer from the main line car to the River road but at the Mulberry street junction. Most of the passengers, he declared, board the bus along St. George street. The change would also benefit many workers at the Laughlin pottery and serve to relieve congestion on the main line, it is pointed out.

Solon Hayes declared that the traction company opposed the plan of crossing the tracks at Virginia avenue because a state law prohibited bus crossings where no watchmen were employed. The traction company representatives, however, expressed a willingness to eliminate the Mulberry street section entirely, operating to the east end of St. George street instead.

Councilman Chambers, after the discussion, offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to prepare an ordinance calling for a change in the street car company's franchise with regard to the bus route. The motion was succeeded by Councilman Kerr and passed, with members voting favorably. The legislation probably will be enacted at the next meeting.

Police Equipment Issue.

Debate followed Councilman Fred Eardley's introduction of an ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase "caps and equipment, such as guns and maces for members of the police department."

Councilman Farrall inquired whether it was customary for the city to purchase caps for the police Eardley replied that it was the custom, but explained that the state examiner had notified the city auditor tha legislation providing for his expenditure must be enacted in the future. He said that the city purchased caps, coats and boots for firemen and that it was no more than fair to furnish them for the police.

"I am opposed to buying clothing for the police," said Farrall. "Our officers are getting a fair salary and should buy their own clothing. Some one is trying to push this thing over because they are going out of office, but I am here to safeguard the rights of the people until my term expires."

"I am not trying to push anything across but am merely following the suggestions of the state examiner," replied Eardley. "It always has been customary to furnish the police with caps and equipment."

Vote on Ordinance 5 to 2.

Upon first reading Kerr and Farrall voted "no," on the ordinance, while Hayes, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley announced "yes." The ordinance lacked the necessary three-fourths majority to suspend the rules in order to place it on second reading when Kerr and Farrall stood pat.

Kerr offered a motion that a committee be named to investigate Eardley's claim that the city has been purchasing caps for both firemen and policemen.

"If this is customary, all well and

STOCKHOLDERS OF FIRST NATIONAL AND CITIZENS WILL VOTE UPON PLAN

Consolidation of Two Institutions, Which Has Been Given O. K. of Comptroller of Currency, is Subject to Approval at Meeting Called for Monday, December 28, Officials Announce.

ARRANGEMENT WILL BE EFFECTED AS OF JAN. 5, UNDER FIRST BANK'S NAME

Merging of Interests, Prompted by Fact That Citizens' Bank Has Outgrown Its Present Quarters, Will Give City $4,500,000 Institution Which Will be Housed in Fifth Street Home.

With the approval of the comptroller of the currency, arrangements are being made for a proposed merger of the First National and Citizens' National banks, it was announced today by officials of the two institutions.

The proposed consolidation, which is subject to the approval of the stockholders of both banks, will be voted upon at a stockholders' meeting on Monday, December 28.

The merger is to be effected as of January 5, 1926, and the business is to be conducted under the name and charter of the First National bank in the new home of that institution in Fifth street.

The combined interests of the two institutions will give East Liverpool a $4,500,000 bank.

Oldest and Largest Bank.

The Citizens' National bank found that it had outgrown its present banking home and decided that it was necessary either to build an entirely new banking building or remodel its present quarters, either of which projects involved a large expenditure of money, delay and inconvenience to its patrons. The First National bank has a new bank building and modern equipment sufficient in every respect for the needs of both institutions.

The Directors, seeing the wisdom and advantage of a consolidation that would give Columbiana county one big banking institution without any addition construction expense, approved the plan.

The First National Bank, which was established in 1874, is not only the oldest but also the largest of East Liverpool's financial institutions. It has capital and surplus of $400,000, deposits of more than $2,800,00 and aggregate resources exceeding $3,500,000.

Citizens Founded In 1897

The Citizens' National, founded in 1897, has capital, surplus and profits of about $300,000, deposits of $700,000 and resources of more than $1,100,000.

Both institutions do a general banking business, handle individual checking accounts, pay four per cent interest on savings and supply safe deposit and foreign exchange service. Under authorization of the federal reserve board, the First National bank also maintains an active and growing trust department which is authorized and equipped to serve in all fiduciary capacities.

John J. Purinton is the president of the First National bank and John W. Vodrey is president of the Citizens' National bank.

RIVER ROAD BUS LOOP MAY BE DISCONTINUED; UPPER ST. GEORGE STREET TERMINUS IS PROPOSED

The River Road bus will discontinue the Virginia avenue, Pennsylvania avenue, Mulberry street loop and will establish its East End terminus at the upper end of St. George street, under the terms of an ordinance, which Solicitor Harry Brokaw, was instructed to prepare by the municipal legislature body last night.

The change in the route, which has the approval of officials of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company will give better transportation facilities to all residents east of Mulberry street and south of the Pennsylvania railroad, council pointed out.

The plan will eliminate the Mulberry street railroad crossing. The bus, after leaving the River road, will travel along St. George street to the old McLean Tire company's plant, where it will turn and follow the same route back to the Diamond.

Few Passengers Transfer.

Councilman Kerr said that but few passengers transfer from the main line car to the River road but at the Mulberry street junction. Most of the passengers, he declared, board the bus along St. George street. The change would also benefit many workers at the Laughlin pottery and serve to relieve congestion on the main line, it is pointed out.

Solon Hayes declared that the traction company opposed the plan of crossing the tracks at Virginia avenue because a state law prohibited bus crossings where no watchmen were employed. The traction company representatives, however, expressed a willingness to eliminate the Mulberry street section entirely, operating to the east end of St. George street instead.

Councilman Chambers, after the discussion, offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to prepare an ordinance calling for a change in the street car company's franchise with regard to the bus route. The motion was succeeded by Councilman Kerr and passed, with members voting favorably. The legislation probably will be enacted at the next meeting.

Police Equipment Issue.

Debate followed Councilman Fred Eardley's introduction of an ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase "caps and equipment, such as guns and maces for members of the police department."

Councilman Farrall inquired whether it was customary for the city to purchase caps for the police Eardley replied that it was the custom, but explained that the state examiner had notified the city auditor tha legislation providing for his expendiure must be enacted in the future. He said that the city purchased caps, coats and boots for firemen and that it was no more than fair to furnish them for the police.

"I am opposed to buying clothing for the police," said Farrall. "Our officers are getting a fair salary and should buy their own clothing. Some one is trying to push this thing over because they are going out of office, but I am here to safeguard the rights of the people until my term expires."

"I am not trying to push anything across but am merely following the suggestions of the state examiner," replied Eardley. "It always has been customary to furnish the police with caps and equipment."

Vote on Ordinance 5 to 2.

Upon first reading Kerr and Farrall voted "no," on the ordinance, while Hayes, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley announced "yes." The ordinance lacked the necessary three-fourths majority to suspend the rules in order to place it on second reading when Kerr and Farrall stood pat.

Kerr offered a motion that a committee be named to investigate Eardley's claim that the city has been purchasing caps for both firemen and policemen.

"If this is customary, all well and

THE HIGHWAY TO LIFE

millions now living will never die

Not in any past ages was the Highway to Life opened up; for in all past ages men have continued to die.

The Highway to Life means what the words imply; namely, a way by which the people can get eternal life here, now.

The casting up of this highway and the gathering out of its stones is in progress before our eyes.

The way of the people, a way they have never hitherto had, is being made ready for them—the way by which they will gain everlasting life on earth.

THE HIGHWAY TO LIFE

millions now living will never die

Not in any past ages was the Highway to Life opened up; for in all past ages men have continued to die.

The Highway to Life means what the words imply; namely, a way by which the people can get eternal life here, now.

The casting up of this highway and the gathering out of its stones is in progress before our eyes.

The way of the people, a way they have never hitherto had, is being made ready for them—the way by which they will gain everlasting life on earth.

The expense of a hunting trip nowadays is almost invariably more than the worth of the game bagged. The average hunter, moreover, is a poor shot. He is a poor woodsman in general. Often he doesn't even know how to start a fire or cook his game, when he runs out of other food.

He has few qualifications of the hunter. Yet he hunts. He races forth eagerly, jubilantly, just the same, years after year, forgetting how often he has dragged himself home hungry, disappointed and totally worn out after such a spree with nature.

The instinct he yields to comes from the time when man had to kill wild things or starve. The instinct survives, but not the knowledge. Skill is lacking, but is partly made up by double-barreled shot guns. Often the hunter shoots himself or some other hunter.

He is lured into the game, too, by the urge to prove to himself and others he is not decadent, that he is able, as his distant ancestors were, to go forth into the open and wrest a living from the wild. Instinct and egotism—and an undercurrent of doubt that he wants to dispel!

So he goes out and probably kills a few pitiful creatures that were better left alive, and somes back with the usual hunter's and fisherman's luck, only to start all over again the next season, instead of practicing at a mark in the back yard and buying his meat at the butcher shop.

Many are shocked to learn that Bryn Mawr college, in Pennsylvania, is going to provide smoking rooms for its girl students.

Such action is not regarded as approval of this practice, but as making the best of the situation. An inquiry reveals the fact that more than half of the girls at Bryn Mawr smoke already. The college authorities believe it is better to have them smoking frankly and openly than furtively in their own rooms.

That is probably true. It may be true, too, that there will be less use of cigarets when they are not forbidden than when they are. Men have no success in trying to monopolize tobacco. The appeal may weaken when there is no more adventure in it. And if tobacco is more harmful to women than to men, as physicians say, perhaps the women will find it out for themselves sooner or later, and act accordingly.

The Comfortable Kaiser

Kaiser Wilhelm emerges in a new role. He is by way of being one of the richest men in Europe.

The German government has been engaged in business negotiations with him for some time, regarding the disposition of the imperial estates seized when Wilhelm, asserting that he would remain faithful to the death to his loyal supporters, hopped aboard a special train and beat it for Holland.

There were 80 castles in the Hohenzollern collection of real estate, with vast lands and forests and large business investments, not to mention the family jewels and other personal possessions. The Hohenzollern family had not been kinging and empering 600 years for nothing. Much of the sequestered property is now returned or paid for. Wilhelm is allowed only six castles, but he may be able to worry along with them. There will be nearly 200,000 acres, too, and money payments amounting to more than $7,000,000.

Most people will say that republican Germany has been generous. But it's worth more than that to keep Wilhelm out of Germany and off the throne.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The population of a large city moves in and out of New York daily. Some estimate the floating population at 200,000 daily, which, of course, does not include regular commuters. No hotel system has been devised to handle this enormous transient population perfectly.

They merely do the best they can, and the wonder is they do so well. The chief difficulty, of course, is telephone calls. Transients do 80 per cent of their business over the phone. I have had calls put through to new arrivals 10 minutes after they registered.

And I spent an entire day getting a man who was in his apartment and had lived at the big hotel four years. Resident guests in big hotels rarely know anyone but key clerks if they spend a lifetime in the hostelry.

They tell of a man dropping in to see a friend and shaking his hand sadly. "Good-bye," he said, "I shall never see you again." Then he explained he was moving into the same hotel that day. In one apartment house hotel on Park avenue it develops that not a single guest is acquainted with another.

The old trick of the headwaiter greeting you by name at your first meal is impossible, save in very small hotels. It was a bit of trickery, but excusable. The old Fifth avenue had a bright young man who stood near the register. He could remember names and faces.

He later stood near the dining room entrance and as the diners came along he whispered their names to the maitre d'hotel and so he greeted them—thus producing a pleasurable thrill that meant lasting patronage. Other hotels used variants of this scheme.

One of the largest hotels has 36 operators at the switchboard during the day and 21 after midnight. They receive alphabetical lists of new arrivals as soon as the cashier, but sometimes with hundreds arriving and departing hourly confusion cannot be avoided.

A half million people a day are weighed on penny scales of New York. The scales are everywhere—theater lobbies, chain drug stores, washrooms and lunchrooms. Most of them furnish cards with date and weight on one side and fortune on the other. There is the yarn of a criminal's fortune reading: "Be careful. You are closely watched." He went around to headquarters and gave himself up.

Weight is closely associated with health—hence the popularity of weighing. Yet one is baffled. The biggest man in town—Big Bill Edwards—is always healthy, and Bide Dudley, the critic, weighing around 100 pounds, has never been sick in his life. Midgets are rarely ill.

Marcus Loew has a shooting gallery in the basement of his pondeous castle on his estate near Glen Cove. It is a throw-back to early days. He began his career operating a shooting gallery.

Sinclair Lewis was talking of a certain magazine, very stilted and highbrow, which now and then tries to curl up its toes. "But," says Lewis, "it always finds the slab too cold and tries to circulate again."

In other days a testimonial dinner was well attended, but not any more. The most recent effort resulted in 17 acceptances out of 800 invitations. The man in whose honor it was to be given was rushed from a liner to the dining room. He took one look inside and fled. The biggest testimonial dinner ever given in New York was to Irvin Cobb at the Waldorf in 1912. More than 3,000 attended.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Civilian Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—While every one is familiar with the work which has been done, and is still being done toward the rehabilitation of those disabled during the war, there are no doubt a great many who do not know so much about the rehabilitation of civilians.

It has been estimated that each year 180,000 persons suffer permanent physical disabilities as the result of public and industrial accidents. In addition to these there are those who are disabled from disease or congenital conditions. While not all of these suffer vocational handicaps it is believed that about 50 per cent are vocationally handicapped.

In 1920 an act of congress known as the Industrial rehabilitation act was passed. This was later amended and is now known as the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act. Under this law the Federal Board for Vocational Education is charged with "the responsibility of promoting in the nation the vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry or otherwise."

Under the act, the federal government agrees to enter into a partnership with the states in the work of rehabilitating civilians with vocational handicaps. For this purpose congress annually appropriates a million dollars which is to be distributed among the states upon a basis of population. The states in turn match each dollar of federal money with a dollar of theirs, and these matched funds are expanded dollar for dollar in the work.

The money appropriated for this work may be used for administrative expenditures, for costs of tuition for disabled persons in training, and for instructional supplies. Under certain conditions it may also be used for the purchase of artificial appliances and for the cost of physical examination.

Most States Cooperate.

At the present time there are 39 states cooperating with the federal government in this work. It is easily realized what an important thing this work of rehabilitating the vocationally handicapped is. It means that such a person instead of becoming a permanent charge on the state is within a comparatively short time self-supporting.

An instance of this is shown in the story of a man from one of the states in the middle west. This man had been in the florist business all his life and finally had become the proprietor of a prosperous shop. Suddenly he was stricken with rheumatism. He was hopelessly crippled. He spent all his savings and finally the business went—all in a fruitless effort to regain his health. Eventually everything he had was gone and as he had no family and no one upon whom he could call for assistance he was taken to the county almshouse.

This man was only 35 years of age and his general health was good. It was reasonable to suppose that he would probably live at least 30 years more. It was estimated that it cost the county six dollars a week to keep him. The State Board of Vocational Education upon learning of his case put a proposition up to the county authorities.

It suggested that if the county authorities would pay the man's subsistence for two years, it would pay for his vocational training. At the end of that time the state board would guarantee to take the man off the county's hands. Realizing that this was a sound business proposition, the county officials agreed. The man, whose hands and eyesight were unimpaired, was given a course in watchmaking and repairing and at the end of a year he was making $15 a week, out of which he was saving $2. His employers said that at the end of the following year he would probably be on a $30 a week basis.

Employers Prejudiced.

Before the passage of the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act many states had workmen's compensation acts and some had bureaus which undertook to place the vocationally handicapped. There were also philanthropic individuals and societies which undertook the vocational education of these, but there was no state responsibility for this work. Also there was in many cases considerable prejudice on the part of employers against the employment of cripples. A man who depended upon manual labor for a living was apt to be decidedly out of luck if through an accident he lost an arm or a hand.

In the vocational rehabilitation of men and women who have been incapacitated through accident or disease a special study is made of the individual. What might be the proper training for one man who had lost an arm would be useless to another with the same handicap. In order that a person may be restored to maximum usefulness it is necessary that the restoration be accomplished on the basis of what he has left, nor what he has lost. Consequently a study must be made of his educational attainments and an analysis of his working experiences. Also his mental qualities, traits, ambitions, resourcefulness, ingenuity and adaptability to new conditions must be taken into account.

One of the chief objects of the rehabilitation service is to see that the disabled person is given the opportunity of obtaining employment in which his physical disability will not appear as a handicap. Therefore very careful consideration is given to the selection of a new line of work. It has been said that in many cases men who have been vocationally rehabilitated have found their new work more remunerative than that which they were doing prior to their injury.

A man who was a lay-out man in a boiler shop lost a leg as the result of an accident, and thus became incapacitated for his job. He had always been interested in dental mechanics so was given a course of training in this. He now operates his own laboratory and is an assistant instructor in this vocation at a state university.

A young woman who had been left with a seriously crippled leg and hip as the result of infantile paralysis was discovered by the rehabilitation service to have an unusual artistic talent and she was accordingly given a course in commercial art. The service discovered a young man with one arm at the uninspiring task of splitting kindling wood. He was given an opportunity to take a commercial course and proved so apt that he is now private secretary to the manager of a large discount company.

Cases are brought to the attention of the rehabilitation service through several mediums. Industrial accidents are reported automatically and public accidents may be reported through hospitals, welfare organizations or social workers. Congenital cases are usually reported through the schools after the children become of employable age. The training may be given in an institution, in a shop, by correspondence, through a tutor, in an established school or by a combination of these.

It requires several townships of arid lands to feed a few goats.

That is probably true. It may be true, too, that there will be less use of cigarets when they are not forbidden than when they are. Men have no success in trying to monopolize tobacco. The appeal may weaken when there is no more adventure in it. And if tobacco is more harmful to women than to men, as physicians say, perhaps the women will find it out for themselves sooner or later, and act accordingly.

The Comfortable Kaiser

Kaiser Wilhelm emerges in a new role. He is by way of being one of the richest men in Europe.

The German government has been engaged in business negotiations with him for some time, regarding the disposition of the imperial estates seized when Wilhelm, asserting that he would remain faithful to the death to his loyal supporters, hopped aboard a special train and beat it for Holland.

There were 80 castles in the Hohenzollern collection of real estate, with vast lands and forests and large business investments, not to mention the family jewels and other personal possessions. The Hohenzollern family had not been kinging and empering 600 years for nothing. Much of the sequestered property is now returned or paid for. Wilhelm is allowed only six castles, but he may be able to worry along with them. There will be nearly 200,000 acres, too, and money payments amounting to more than $7,000,000.

Most people will say that republican Germany has been generous. But it's worth more than that to keep Wilhelm out of Germany and off the throne.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The population of a large city moves in and out of New York daily. Some estimate the floating population at 200,000 daily, which, of course, does not include regular commuters. No hotel system has been devised to handle this enormous transient population perfectly.

They merely do the best they can, and the wonder is they do so well. The chief difficulty, of course, is telephone calls. Transients do 80 per cent of their business over the phone. I have had calls put through to new arrivals 10 minutes after they registered.

And I spent an entire day getting a man who was in his apartment and had lived at the big hotel four years. Resident guests in big hotels rarely know anyone but key clerks if they spend a lifetime in the hostelry.

They tell of a man dropping in to see a friend and shaking his hand sadly. "Good-bye," he said, "I shall never see you again." Then he explained he was moving into the same hotel that day. In one apartment house hotel on Park avenue it develops that not a single guest is acquainted with another.

The old trick of the headwaiter greeting you by name at your first meal is impossible, save in very small hotels. It was a bit of trickery, but excusable. The old Fifth avenue had a bright young man who stood near the register. He could remember names and faces.

He later stood near the dining room entrance and as the diners came along he whispered their names to the maitre d'hotel and so he greeted them—thus producing a pleasurable thrill that meant lasting patronage. Other hotels used variants of this scheme.

One of the largest hotels has 36 operators at the switchboard during the day and 21 after midnight. They receive alphabetical lists of new arrivals as soon as the cashier, but sometimes with hundreds arriving and departing hourly confusion cannot be avoided.

A half million people a day are weighed on penny scales of New York. The scales are everywhere—theater lobbies, chain drug stores, washrooms and lunchrooms. Most of them furnish cards with date and weight on one side and fortune on the other. There is the yarn of a criminal's fortune reading: "Be careful. You are closely watched." He went around to headquarters and gave himself up.

Weight is closely associated with health—hence the popularity of weighing. Yet one is baffled. The biggest man in town—Big Bill Edwards—is always healthy, and Bide Dudley, the critic, weighing around 100 pounds, has never been sick in his life. Midgets are rarely ill.

Marcus Loew has a shooting gallery in the basement of his pondeous castle on his estate near Glen Cove. It is a throw-back to early days. He began his career operating a shooting gallery.

Sinclair Lewis was talking of a certain magazine, very stilted and highbrow, which now and then tries to curl up its toes. "But," says Lewis, "it always finds the slab too cold and tries to circulate again."

In other days a testimonial dinner was well attended, but not any more. The most recent effort resulted in 17 acceptances out of 800 invitations. The man in whose honor it was to be given was rushed from a liner to the dining room. He took one look inside and fled. The biggest testimonial dinner ever given in New York was to Irvin Cobb at the Waldorf in 1912. More than 3,000 attended.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Civilian Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—While every one is familiar with the work which has been done, and is still being done toward the rehabilitation of those disabled during the war, there are no doubt a great many who do not know so much about the rehabilitation of civilians.

It has been estimated that each year 180,000 persons suffer permanent physical disabilities as the result of public and industrial accidents. In addition to these there are those who are disabled from disease or congenital conditions. While not all of these suffer vocational handicaps it is believed that about 50 per cent are vocationally handicapped.

In 1920 an act of congress known as the Industrial rehabilitation act was passed. This was later amended and is now known as the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act. Under this law the Federal Board for Vocational Education is charged with "the responsibility of promoting in the nation the vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry or otherwise."

Under the act, the federal government agrees to enter into a partnership with the states in the work of rehabilitating civilians with vocational handicaps. For this purpose congress annually appropriates a million dollars which is to be distributed among the states upon a basis of population. The states in turn match each dollar of federal money with a dollar of theirs, and these matched funds are expanded dollar for dollar in the work.

The money appropriated for this work may be used for administrative expenditures, for costs of tuition for disabled persons in training, and for instructional supplies. Under certain conditions it may also be used for the purchase of artificial appliances and for the cost of physical examination.

Most States Cooperate.

At the present time there are 39 states cooperating with the federal government in this work. It is easily realized what an important thing this work of rehabilitating the vocationally handicapped is. It means that such a person instead of becoming a permanent charge on the state is within a comparatively short time self-supporting.

An instance of this is shown in the story of a man from one of the states in the middle west. This man had been in the florist business all his life and finally had become the proprietor of a prosperous shop. Suddenly he was stricken with rheumatism. He was hopelessly crippled. He spent all his savings and finally the business went—all in a fruitless effort to regain his health. Eventually everything he had was gone and as he had no family and no one upon whom he could call for assistance he was taken to the county almshouse.

This man was only 35 years of age and his general health was good. It was reasonable to suppose that he would probably live at least 30 years more. It was estimated that it cost the county six dollars a week to keep him. The State Board of Vocational Education upon learning of his case put a proposition up to the county authorities.

It suggested that if the county authorities would pay the man's subsistence for two years, it would pay for his vocational training. At the end of that time the state board would guarantee to take the man off the county's hands. Realizing that this was a sound business proposition, the county officials agreed. The man, whose hands and eyesight were unimpaired, was given a course in watchmaking and repairing and at the end of a year he was making $15 a week, out of which he was saving $2. His employers said that at the end of the following year he would probably be on a $30 a week basis.

Employers Prejudiced.

Before the passage of the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act many states had workmen's compensation acts and some had bureaus which undertook to place the vocationally handicapped. There were also philanthropic individuals and societies which undertook the vocational education of these, but there was no state responsibility for this work. Also there was in many cases considerable prejudice on the part of employers against the employment of cripples. A man who depended upon manual labor for a living was apt to be decidedly out of luck if through an accident he lost an arm or a hand.

In the vocational rehabilitation of men and women who have been incapacitated through accident or disease a special study is made of the individual. What might be the proper training for one man who had lost an arm would be useless to another with the same handicap. In order that a person may be restored to maximum usefulness it is necessary that the restoration be accomplished on the basis of what he has left, nor what he has lost. Consequently a study must be made of his educational attainments and an analysis of his working experiences. Also his mental qualities, traits, ambitions, resourcefulness, ingenuity and adaptability to new conditions must be taken into account.

One of the chief objects of the rehabilitation service is to see that the disabled person is given the opportunity of obtaining employment in which his physical disability will not appear as a handicap. Therefore very careful consideration is given to the selection of a new line of work. It has been said that in many cases men who have been vocationally rehabilitated have found their new work more remunerative than that which they were doing prior to their injury.

A man who was a lay-out man in a boiler shop lost a leg as the result of an accident, and thus became incapacitated for his job. He had always been interested in dental mechanics so was given a course of training in this. He now operates his own laboratory and is an assistant instructor in this vocation at a state university.

A young woman who had been left with a seriously crippled leg and hip as the result of infantile paralysis was discovered by the rehabilitation service to have an unusual artistic talent and she was accordingly given a course in commercial art. The service discovered a young man with one arm at the uninspiring task of splitting kindling wood. He was given an opportunity to take a commercial course and proved so apt that he is now private secretary to the manager of a large discount company.

Cases are brought to the attention of the rehabilitation service through several mediums. Industrial accidents are reported automatically and public accidents may be reported through hospitals, welfare organizations or social workers. Congenital cases are usually reported through the schools after the children become of employable age. The training may be given in an institution, in a shop, by correspondence, through a tutor, in an established school or by a combination of these.

It requires several townships of arid lands to feed a few goats.

NO DATE FOR ROAD OPENING

County Won't Take Chance on Damaging Concrete.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has not detremined upon a date for the opening of the Wellsville-Salineville road, and over the recently improved section in Yellow Creek township.

"It is not the intent of the state highway department to keep the road closed in Yellow Creek township longer than possible, but at the same time the department wants to protect the improvement.

"We know how anxious the people want this road opened and I can say that it will not be kept closed any longer than is absolutely necessary."

It may follow that the road will be opened for through traffic by the end of another week.

COURT REVERSES WATKINS RULING

The late Mayor James S. Barnes of Wellsville was reversed by Judge James G. Moore in the decision handed down by the lower court in the case of Albert Watkins, charged with a violation of the liquor laws.

This case was carried to common pleas court on error, Attorney W. A. O'Grady representing the defendant in the lower court, and the plaintiff in error in the court above, and in which the state of Ohio was named as the defendant in error.

The decree of the court read that the judgment of the mayor's court is reversed on the grounds that the judgment is against the weight of the evidence and not supported by sufficient evidence.

The action was then dismissed at the costs of the defendant in error, and judgment for the costs of the plaintiff in error against the defendant in error has been rendered.

"The Scarlet West" Is Photoplay at American Theatre

Stories of the Old West constitute the most popular form of fiction. Hundreds of books, with their locale laid in that section, are published yearly; scores of magazines print Western stories exclusively, and even the "high brow" publications use them frequently.

That is one of the reasons for the unprecedented popularity of "The Scarlet West," a First National picture which is coming Monday to the American theatre. Wherever it has been shown it has been acclaimed one of the outstanding motion pictures of the year.

"The Scarlet West" exudes that romantic spirit which has given the West such a powerful hold on the affections of the millions. It was made by men who know the West, and it was produced in one of the beauty spots of the continent—southwestern Colorado.

COURT REVERSES WATKINS RULING

The late Mayor James S. Barnes of Wellsville was reversed by Judge James G. Moore in the decision handed down by the lower court in the case of Albert Watkins, charged with a violation of the liquor laws.

This case was carried to common pleas court on error, Attorney W. A. O'Grady representing the defendant in the lower court, and the plaintiff in error in the court above, and in which the state of Ohio was named as the defendant in error.

The decree of the court read that the judgment of the mayor's court is reversed on the grounds that the judgment is against the weight of the evidence and not supported by sufficient evidence.

The action was then dismissed at the costs of the defendant in error, and judgment for the costs of the plaintiff in error against the defendant in error has been rendered.

"The Scarlet West" Is Photoplay at American Theatre

Stories of the Old West constitute the most popular form of fiction. Hundreds of books, with their locale laid in that section, are published yearly; scores of magazines print Western stories exclusively, and even the "high brow" publications use them frequently.

That is one of the reasons for the unprecedented popularity of "The Scarlet West," a First National picture which is coming Monday to the American theatre. Wherever it has been shown it has been acclaimed one of the outstanding motion pictures of the year.

"The Scarlet West" exudes that romantic spirit which has given the West such a powerful hold on the affections of the millions. It was made by men who know the West, and it was produced in one of the beauty spots of the continent—southwestern Colorado.

DRUG STORES SELLING RUM GET ONCE-ONCE

Prohibition Chiefs Investigate Permits for Whisky.

HIT HOME BREW

Plan to Cut Down Number of Nation's Dispensaries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Having revoked thousands of permits for wine making and home-brewing, the prohibition regime today started an exhaustive survey and investigation into the permits now held by drug stores and other concerns for the "legal" sale of whisky.

The primary object of the investigation is to cut down the number of dispensaries. There are more than 40,000 pharmacies alone that have permits to sell liquor on a physicians' prescription, and their conduct is to be subjected to searching scrutiny from federal investigators. It was said at the treasury that many licenses probably will be revoked, as well as the permits of many physicians to prescribe liquor.

Druggists have a full right to fill any prescription for liquor or drugs signed by reputable physicians, without investigation as to whether or not these goods are to be used legally, according to a decision by Attorney General Sargent.

Agreements With Bootleggers.

According to information at the treasury many drug stores, principally in the large cities, have a working agreement with bootleggers. Thousands of gallons of alcohol are believed to be reaching the bootleg market through this channel. Bonded liquors obtained from druggists are at least tripled in volume by the addition of water or other adulterants for sale to the retail trade.

A new permit system for druggists is under consideration by Gen. L. C. Andrews. They may be required to make monthly reports to prohibition administrators as to the amount of intoxicants purchased and to whom these liquors are disposed.

Officials said that if this regulation is adopted the government will have taken a big step in keeping a check on the movements of liquor. Prohibition administrators would be requested to investigate all suspicious sales.

Gen. Andrews already has concentrated a force of investigators and legal experts in a study of the 80 distilleries and 150 denaturing plants which hold federal licenses.

Gov "Ma" Ferguson Silent on Demand For Assembly Meet

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 28. — With James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, having spoken for the governor to the effect that no decision has been made toward calling a special session of the Texas legislature, and virtually admitting to newspaper men last night that he, not "Ma," was "the governor of Texas," conditions dropped back to normalcy today to await the announcement, if any is to be made, from the executive mansion of the woman governor's intentions.

A report of the Travis county (Austin) grand jury which is known to have investigated highway affairs, was also awaited today. Today was the last day a return could be made, it being the last day of the fall term of court.

Mrs. Ferguson maintained silence.

Ohio Champ Corn Producer.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—Ira Marshall, Dola, Hardin county, today is the world's champion corn producers, according to officials of the agricultural extension department, Ohio State university. Marshall, a farmer, is credited with producing 1,600.1 bushels of corn on 10 acres, or 25.7 bushels per acre more than the world's records, made by W. H. Gilmore, Licking county, three years ago.

fact that French socialism is educated and intelligent.

Jaures, murdered when the war began—for talking common sense—was one of the ablest men in France, or anywhere else. And one of the best and most sincere men.

A thousand French socialists are better equipped, mentally, and better balanced, than any 10 public men you could name in the United States.

Over there, they must think and study to win their public importance. It is not handed to them by political or financial bosses.

Nothing comes suddenly. It took a long time and several revolutions for the humble bourgeoise to take power from kings, nobles and clergy, thus increasing a thousand fold the number of those with a share in life's good things. And the merchants, the "money men," did not gain power except as they learned how to use it.

The next step along the path of democracy will be another increase in the number of earth's children that share its property. That step will be taken when the great crowd learns how to rule itself, and finds competent leaders that won't betray it.

An important sight was the brief power of Macdonald in Britain. But such things come slowly, they help everybody and need not hurt anybody when they do happen.

If our men of power have any intelligence, the change here will come a long time hence, and as peacefully as an election in a golf club. The trouble is that our "big" men take themselves too seriously, attaching to their bank balances more importance than to historical precedent, and the rights of others.

An intelligent young New York girl, whose life-long environment has been a mixture of genuine capital, and what capital calls "society," rebels in print. She says formal balls are so stupid, the "unalluring stag lines" (meaning the rows of young society gentlemen all dressed up) are so deadly dull, that young ladies of this period are driven to the cabarets for intellectual aspiration.

In heaven where he dwells, if the Homestead killings did not send him somewhere else, old Carnegie must wonder. He built and gave away 1,000 or more libraries, thinking that he was supplying the needs of discontented, ambitious youth.

He should have endowed cabarets, with Ziegfeld, Berlin and Dillingham on the board of directors.

MASTER BANDIT FIGHTS PARDON

Gerald Chapman Will Face U. S. Judge on Monday.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 28.—Gerald Chapman, lodged in the death house at the state prison in Wethersfield, was in consultation today with his attorneys who are directing their efforts to aid him avoiding the gallows on March 3, next. Chapman will face Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the board of pardons room at the state prison next Monday morning and in person say why he should be returned to Atlanta to serve out his 25-year term for mail robbery.

President Coolidge has freed Chapman from the Atlanta term so that Connecticut may deal with him for murder. The president's action, Chapman will contend, was a misuse of executive power, and on that proposition Chapman will fight his case into the supreme court of the United States. So his counsel have declared publicly.

In order that there may be sufficient time for Chapman to test his theory Governor Trumbull has reprieved the bandit for three months.

Rabbit Hunters Blamed for Wounding Of Calf in Field

Rabbit hunters are blamed for the wounding of an 18-month old calf, belonging to R. L. Thompson, residing on the Country club road, about two miles north of here, early last night.

The calf was in a pasture field, when Mr. Thompson and neighbors were attracted by a shot evidently fired by one of a party of hunters. Later in the evening the calf was found with a bullet wound in its shoulder. It may be necessary to kill the animal.

A search was made for the hunters but they had fled from the farm. Members of the Thompson family said the shooting was to be reported to Sheriff George Wright.

WAGGONER WINS WAR CRY PRIZE

Salvation Army Envoy Awarded $25 for Yuletide Story.

C. Walter Waggoner, a Salvation Army envoy, and a former resident of this city, is the winner of a cash prize of $25, offered by "The War Cry," official Salvation Army organ, for the best Christmas story, which will appear in the Christmas edition of the publication.

The story, written by Mr. Waggoner and which was chosen from hundreds of contributions, deals with the Christmas activities of the organization among the poor children. It is entitled, "Joey's Christmas Prayer."

Mr. Waggoner, who is a brother of Mrs. Byron H. Ingersoll of Chester avenue, is a native of East Liverpool, having spent the greater part of his life here. He received his early training in Salvation Army work with the local corps.

He is a noted song writer and composer, having been a member of the local Salvation Army band for several years. For many years he was the spiritual special for the eastern Ohio division of the Salvation Army. At the present time he is engaged in Salvation Army work in Boston and eastern Massachusetts.

The Yuletide number of the War Cry, which is just off the press but which will not be ready for distribution until the week preceding Christmas, consists of 24 pages. It has an art cover of four colors and also a pictorial supplement in rotragravure. This year's circulation of the Christmas number is expected to reach the 700,000 mark, as compared with 650,000 last season.

good," he said, "but if not, it would establish a precedent. I know the city has been purchasing the helmets worn by firemen while fighting blazes, but am of the opinion that each man buys his own dress cap."

There was no opposition to the proposed inquiry, and President Capehart named Farrall, Kerr and Eardley as members of this committee, instructing them to report before the next meeting, when the ordinance probably will be considered on second reading.

Traffic Ordinance Changes Urged.

Chief of Police McDermott asked council to amend the traffic ordinance, making Washington street from Fourth to Fifth street a two-way thoroughfare in order to ban left turns at the postoffice corner. He said that the Fifth street and Broadway corner was one of the most dangerous in the city, and that it would be safer for the pedestrians if left turns were prohibited. To re-establish two-way traffic on Washington street south of Fifth would permit vehicles to turn south on this street and not be forced to go all the way to Jackson street before making a turn.

The chief declared that parking on Washington street would be restricted in order to eliminate the congestion which Solon Larcombe pointed out. The solicitor was instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing this change in traffic regulations.

The proposed erection of a street car waiting station in the Diamond was suggested by Hayes, who said that the traction company officials had expressed a willingness to rent from the city such a building. The building would cost approximately $20,000, according to estimates. Owing to city's financial condition, the proposition failed to interest the solons.

"It's The Woman Who Pays"

ATHENS, O., Nov. 28. — The old wheeze is right, "it's the woman who pays." So said police here today.

Prohibition agents found 40 gallons of mash on a farm near Marshfield, and, unable to find Lewis Williams, a tenant farmer, they arrested Mrs. Williams as his proxy and held her under heavy bond on the theory Williams would surrender to get his wife out of jail.

Wellsburg, W. Va., Man Is Murdered in Bootleggers' Feud

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 28.—A murder, believed to have resulted from a bootleggers' feud, was discovered today with the finding of the mutilated body of Lawrence Deoenoes, also known as Charles Wicker, a miner. Steve Tokas, also a miner, found the body on his way to work. It was lying on a hill near Cross Creek, where the slain man lived in a shanty. Long, deep gashes, evidently inflicted with a hatchet, marked the face. The hands had been strapped together and another strap encircled Deoenoes' neck.

Authorities said the body probably had been dragged to the spot where it was found. Upon examining Doenoes' shanty, they found a small still and a quantity of moonshine liquor, they reported. Only recently the slain man had been in court on a liquor charge.

Woman and Five Alleged Accomplices Held for Bombings

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Judge Thomas Lynch of the criminal court today held Mrs. Fred Schrock Rice and five alleged accomplices on bonds of $120,000 each for a total of $720,000 on charges that they had contributed to the bombings of four buildings.

The others held are: Joseph M. Sangerman, business man, labor union worker, Fred Wamquist, Joe Avanzio, Louis D'Andrea and Jack Davis.

They were held on four charges of malicious mischief each and four charges of damaging buildings with dynamite bombs each after State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe had told Judge Lynch he had evidence, including confessions, that they were involved in a wide-spread conspiracy to intimidate organizations and citizens with bombs.

California has 6,000,000 acres of irrigated land, producing annual crops worth $300,000,000.

BARTH GIVEN CENSUS PLACE

C. of C. Secretary Named Duty in Biennial Survey.

H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been commissioned a deputy by the United States Bureau of Census in the biennial census of manufacturers, covering the year 1925, which will be taken starting early in January.

According to an act of Congress, passed March 3, 1919, all manufacturers whose gross products are valued at $5,000 or more for the past year are required to make this report. Blank forms, on which these reports must be filed, are to be mailed during the latter part of the present month and are to be returned properly made out as early in January as possible.

Manufacturers who fail to obey the instructions are to be reported to Barth, who will immediately call their attention to the matter. These reports must be returned to the bureau of census not later than March 31, 1926.

Manufacturers are urged to have their records in such shape that there will be no unnecessary delay in the compilation of this report after the first of the year.

Census reports will be tabulated as soon as all returns are filed. Any delay in filing the reports will have a tendency to delay the complete tabulation.

J. J. Gitschner, Newell, was fined $50 and costs when arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown yesterday afternoon upon a charge of reckless driving.

He was arrested by Patrolman William Lister, upon an affidavit filed by James McDonald, claim agent for The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, shortly after his automobile is alleged to have collided with a Chester street car in Washington street near the Potter's Savings & Loan company building.

McDonald charged Gischner drove south on Washington street, a violation of the one-way street regulations, and was exceeding the speed limit at the time of the crash. The front end of his machine was badly damaged. No one was injured.

Mrs. Simeon D. Fess, Senator's Wife, Hurt In Auto Accident

Mrs. Simeon D. Fess, wife of the junior senator from Ohio, and mother of Lowell and Sumner Fess, formerly of this city, is in a Washington, D. C., hospital following an automobile accident near Uniontown yesterday.

The accident occurred when the senator and his wife, son, Lowell and the latter's wife and Mrs. Minnie Bozore of Columbus were enroute from Yellow Springs to Washington. Lowell Fess was at the wheel of the car when it skidded while descending Summit mountain, near Uniontown. The car turned around three and one-half times before it came to a stop. Had it not swerved to the opposite side of the road it would have dropped 100 feet into a ravine.

Mrs. Fess was brought to Washington by train. The other members of the party suffered nervous shocks.

Lowell Fess was a high school instructor here for several years. His younger brother, Sumner, graduated from the local high school while his brother was teaching.

Gov "Ma" Ferguson Silent on Demand For Assembly Meet

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 28. — With James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, having spoken for the governor to the effect that no decision has been made toward calling a special session of the Texas legislature, and virtually admitting to newspaper men last night that he, not "Ma," was "the governor of Texas," conditions dropped back to normalcy today to await the announcement, if any is to be made, from the executive mansion of the woman governor's intentions.

A report of the Travis county (Austin) grand jury which is known to have investigated highway affairs, was also awaited today. Today was the last day a return could be made, it being the last day of the fall term of court.

Mrs. Ferguson maintained silence.

fact that French socialism is educated and intelligent.

Jaures, murdered when the war began—for talking common sense—was one of the ablest men in France, or anywhere else. And one of the best and most sincere men.

A thousand French socialists are better equipped, mentally, and better balanced, than any 10 public men you could name in the United States.

Over there, they must think and study to win their public importance. It is not handed to them by political or financial bosses.

Nothing comes suddenly. It took a long time and several revolutions for the humble bourgeoise to take power from kings, nobles and clergy, thus increasing a thousand fold the number of those with a share in life's good things. And the merchants, the "money men," did not gain power except as they learned how to use it.

The next step along the path of democracy will be another increase in the number of earth's children that share its property. That step will be taken when the great crowd learns how to rule itself, and finds competent leaders that won't betray it.

An important sight was the brief power of Macdonald in Britain. But such things come slowly, they help everybody and need not hurt anybody when they do happen.

If our men of power have any intelligence, the change here will come a long time hence, and as peacefully as an election in a golf club. The trouble is that our "big" men take themselves too seriously, attaching to their bank balances more importance than to historical precedent, and the rights of others.

An intelligent young New York girl, whose life-long environment has been a mixture of genuine capital, and what capital calls "society," rebels in print. She says formal balls are so stupid, the "unalluring stag lines" (meaning the rows of young society gentlemen all dressed up) are so deadly dull, that young ladies of this period are driven to the cabarets for intellectual aspiration.

In heaven where he dwells, if the Homestead killings did not send him somewhere else, old Carnegie must wonder. He built and gave away 1,000 or more libraries, thinking that he was supplying the needs of discontented, ambitious youth.

He should have endowed cabarets, with Ziegfeld, Berlin and Dillingham on the board of directors.

MASTER BANDIT FIGHTS PARDON

Gerald Chapman Will Face U. S. Judge on Monday.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 28.—Gerald Chapman, lodged in the death house at the state prison in Wethersfield, was in consultation today with his attorneys who are directing their efforts to aid him avoiding the gallows on March 3, next. Chapman will face Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the board of pardons room at the state prison next Monday morning and in person say why he should be returned to Atlanta to serve out his 25-year term for mail robbery.

President Coolidge has freed Chapman from the Atlanta term so that Connecticut may deal with him for murder. The president's action, Chapman will contend, was a misuse of executive power, and on that proposition Chapman will fight his case into the supreme court of the United States. So his counsel have declared publicly.

In order that there may be sufficient time for Chapman to test his theory Governor Trumbull has reprieved the bandit for three months.

Rabbit Hunters Blamed for Wounding Of Calf in Field

Rabbit hunters are blamed for the wounding of an 18-month old calf, belonging to R. L. Thompson, residing on the Country club road, about two miles north of here, early last night.

The calf was in a pasture field, when Mr. Thompson and neighbors were attracted by a shot evidently fired by one of a party of hunters. Later in the evening the calf was found with a bullet wound in its shoulder. It may be necessary to kill the animal.

A search was made for the hunters but they had fled from the farm. Members of the Thompson family said the shooting was to be reported to Sheriff George Wright.

WAGGONER WINS WAR CRY PRIZE

Salvation Army Envoy Awarded $25 for Yuletide Story.

C. Walter Waggoner, a Salvation Army envoy, and a former resident of this city, is the winner of a cash prize of $25, offered by "The War Cry," official Salvation Army organ, for the best Christmas story, which will appear in the Christmas edition of the publication.

The story, written by Mr. Waggoner and which was chosen from hundreds of contributions, deals with the Christmas activities of the organization among the poor children. It is entitled, "Joey's Christmas Prayer."

Mr. Waggoner, who is a brother of Mrs. Byron H. Ingersoll of Chester avenue, is a native of East Liverpool, having spent the greater part of his life here. He received his early training in Salvation Army work with the local corps.

He is a noted song writer and composer, having been a member of the local Salvation Army band for several years. For many years he was the spiritual special for the eastern Ohio division of the Salvation Army. At the present time he is engaged in Salvation Army work in Boston and eastern Massachusetts.

The Yuletide number of the War Cry, which is just off the press but which will not be ready for distribution until the week preceding Christmas, consists of 24 pages. It has an art cover of four colors and also a pictorial supplement in rotragravure. This year's circulation of the Christmas number is expected to reach the 700,000 mark, as compared with 650,000 last season.

good," he said, "but if not, it would establish a precedent. I know the city has been purchasing the helmets worn by firemen while fighting blazes, but am of the opinion that each man buys his own dress cap."

There was no opposition to the proposed inquiry, and President Capehart named Farrall, Kerr and Eardley as members of this committee, instructing them to report before the next meeting, when the ordinance probably will be considered on second reading.

Traffic Ordinance Changes Urged.

Chief of Police McDermott asked council to amend the traffic ordinance, making Washington street from Fourth to Fifth street a two-way thoroughfare in order to ban left turns at the postoffice corner. He said that the Fifth street and Broadway corner was one of the most dangerous in the city, and that it would be safer for the pedestrians if left turns were prohibited. To re-establish two-way traffic on Washington street south of Fifth would permit vehicles to turn south on this street and not be forced to go all the way to Jackson street before making a turn.

The chief declared that parking on Washington street would be restricted in order to eliminate the congestion which Solon Larcombe pointed out. The solicitor was instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing this change in traffic regulations.

The proposed erection of a street car waiting station in the Diamond was suggested by Hayes, who said that the traction company officials had expressed a willingness to rent from the city such a building. The building would cost approximately $20,000, according to estimates. Owing to city's financial condition, the proposition failed to interest the solons.

"It's The Woman Who Pays"

ATHENS, O., Nov. 28. — The old wheeze is right, "it's the woman who pays." So said police here today.

Prohibition agents found 40 gallons of mash on a farm near Marshfield, and, unable to find Lewis Williams, a tenant farmer, they arrested Mrs. Williams as his proxy and held her under heavy bond on the theory Williams would surrender to get his wife out of jail.

Wellsburg, W. Va., Man Is Murdered in Bootleggers' Feud

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 28.—A murder, believed to have resulted from a bootleggers' feud, was discovered today with the finding of the mutilated body of Lawrence Deoenoes, also known as Charles Wicker, a miner. Steve Tokas, also a miner, found the body on his way to work. It was lying on a hill near Cross Creek, where the slain man lived in a shanty. Long, deep gashes, evidently inflicted with a hatchet, marked the face. The hands had been strapped together and another strap encircled Deoenoes' neck.

Authorities said the body probably had been dragged to the spot where it was found. Upon examining Doenoes' shanty, they found a small still and a quantity of moonshine liquor, they reported. Only recently the slain man had been in court on a liquor charge.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Judge Thomas Lynch of the criminal court today held Mrs. Fred Schrock Rice and five alleged accomplices on bonds of $120,000 each for a total of $720,000 on charges that they had contributed to the bombings of four buildings.

The others held are: Joseph M. Sangerman, business man, labor union worker, Fred Wamquist, Joe Avanzio, Louis D'Andrea and Jack Davis.

They were held on four charges of malicious mischief each and four charges of damaging buildings with dynamite bombs each after State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe had told Judge Lynch he had evidence, including confessions, that they were involved in a wide-spread conspiracy to intimidate organizations and citizens with bombs.

BARTH GIVEN CENSUS PLACE

C. of C. Secretary Named Duty in Biennial Survey.

H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been commissioned a deputy by the United States Bureau of Census in the biennial census of manufacturers, covering the year 1925, which will be taken starting early in January.

According to an act of Congress, passed March 3, 1919, all manufacturers whose gross products are valued at $5,000 or more for the past year are required to make this report. Blank forms, on which these reports must be filed, are to be mailed during the latter part of the present month and are to be returned properly made out as early in January as possible.

Manufacturers who fail to obey the instructions are to be reported to Barth, who will immediately call their attention to the matter. These reports must be returned to the bureau of census not later than March 31, 1926.

Manufacturers are urged to have their records in such shape that there will be no unnecessary delay in the compilation of this report after the first of the year.

Census reports will be tabulated as soon as all returns are filed. Any delay in filing the reports will have a tendency to delay the complete tabulation.

He was arrested by Patrolman William Lister, upon an affidavit filed by James McDonald, claim agent for The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, shortly after his automobile is alleged to have collided with a Chester street car in Washington street near the Potter's Savings & Loan company building.

McDonald charged Gischner drove south on Washington street, a violation of the one-way street regulations, and was exceeding the speed limit at the time of the crash. The front end of his machine was badly damaged. No one was injured.

Mrs. Simeon D. Fess, Senator's Wife, Hurt In Auto Accident

Mrs. Simeon D. Fess, wife of the junior senator from Ohio, and mother of Lowell and Sumner Fess, formerly of this city, is in a Washington, D. C., hospital following an automobile accident near Uniontown yesterday.

The accident occurred when the senator and his wife, son, Lowell and the latter's wife and Mrs. Minnie Bozore of Columbus were enroute from Yellow Springs to Washington. Lowell Fess was at the wheel of the car when it skidded while descending Summit mountain, near Uniontown. The car turned around three and one-half times before it came to a stop. Had it not swerved to the opposite side of the road it would have dropped 100 feet into a ravine.

Mrs. Fess was brought to Washington by train. The other members of the party suffered nervous shocks.

Lowell Fess was a high school instructor here for several years. His younger brother, Sumner, graduated from the local high school while his brother was teaching.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY — BY EDGAR POE NORRIS

TEN.

The best friend of Noble Harwood in New York City was a man whose acquaintance he had made in business, Charley Buckmaster, president of the company which was the export agent of the National Axle and Bearing Co. He lived with a childless wife, a British woman he had married while a United States counsel in Brazil, in an apartment in Park Avenue, and lived up all of his $40,000 annual income in advance. Mrs. Buckmaster spent her private income of 800 pounds a year upon herself.

The Buckmasters gave the first of the affairs with which Laurel and Noble Harwood were complimented in New York. It was a rather hastily organized affair, with a private dining-room of the apartment house in which the Buckmasters lived as the locale.

The honeymooners had been in the city a week when this took place. They had a suite at the Savoyard, a smart and semi-private hotel in the Fifties, in which they spent a few hours a day. Afternoons were taken up moving about in a low, rakish Minerva town car of pleasing hue which Noble had chartered, together with a chauffeur, for the duration of their stay. They visited all the familiar sights of the city, and invariably joined the procession of motors on Riverside Drive in the late afternoon. Every evening, after dinner at Pierre's, Sherry's, L'Aiglon, Voisin or Elysee, there was a show, the Follies, the Music Box, the Theater Guild, a spectacle at the Century, Walter Hampden's current production, and, the night before the Buckmaster affair, a de luxe presentation of a new Douglas Fairbanks photoplay.

After the theater there was supper at a night club—The Russian Eagle, Texas Guinan's, Ciro's Mecca (before it was padlocked), Mirador and they rubbed shoulders with notables of society, the stage and the screen. The night they supped at Texas Guinan's they had a table next to Peggy Hopkins Joyce and her current admirer, and saw before they left, at 4 o'clock in the morning, Marjorie Rambeau, Carl Van Vechten and his wife, Sonia Marinoff, George Jean Nathan, Vincent Astor and one of the Vanderbilt heiresses with a suitor. None of these they would have recognized had not the exurberant and raucous La Guinan shouted out the names, attached to some bit of her humor. On another night, at Ciro's, they saw Richard Barthlemess, but Laurel didn't need to have him identified.

This manner of existence was like wine to Laurel. She felt as if she never before lived.

At luncheon at the Crillon on the day of the Buckmaster affair, Noble asked to be excused for the afternoon.

"There are some old acquaintances I really shouldn't neglect," he explained, "and I thought there might be some place you would like to go alone."

She regarded him doubtfully. "Very well, dear."

"You may take the motor, of course. I'll be at the hotel not later than six-thirty. We won't want to be at the Buckmaster's before eight."

"All right, dear." She wondered if these old acquaintances" were women. He had mentioned the names of other persons he had gone to see without her. Perhaps he was bored and wanted to spend the afternoon alone. She studied him furtively as they finished the meal.

"Can I drop you off somewhere?" she suggested as they were waiting for the doorman to page their motor.

"No, it isn't far, and I'll walk."

She saw him move away on foot as her car left the place She was seized with an impulse to follow him, just to see where he went. She might have done so had not her motor became entangled in a traffic jam out of which there seemed no exit.

"Along Fifth Avenue,' she had instructed the chauffeur. She had no idea of what she wanted to do. A glimpse of shop windows along the thoroughfare decided her. She wanted to walk along and look into them all. At 53rd street she signalled the driver to turn. "Just wait here, or return in—in an hour," she said, as he drew up at the curb.

In an hour she had not returned to the waiting motor car. Nor in an hour and a half. Feeling like one set down in the midst of the wonder of old Bagdad, she was drinking deeply of the exhilaration of moving about among all the treasures of the world—jewels, precious metals, silks, tapestries, paintings, rare books, sculptured beauties. She wandered into the great departments tores that occupies all of the block from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth street, and in its grown salon saw the afternoon mannequin parade. One model captivated her. It had some of the feeling of an evening gown, but had the long, transparent sleeves that declared it an afternoon frock. The material was soft black crepe, with black chiffon sleeves ending in cuffs of the crepe, and with lovely embroidery in shades of purple and green ornamenting the bodice. It was just the thing for her particular figure.

She opened her purse, knowing that there was no more than ten dollars in it, and regarded the amount. Noble had given her no money; and he had not spoken of an allowance. On the trip he had spent money like a king. In one of the night clubs, she noticed that his tip to the waiter was ten dollars. She could, she knew, have the frock sent to the hotel C. O. D. But she hesitated. She was afraid that it was too soon for her to begin buying clothing at his expense. They had been married less than two weeks, and her trousseau, with its ten gowns and frocks, was supposed to be complete. Reluctantly she left the salon. A clock over the elevator made it known, to her consternation, that it was five o'clock.

It was the parade hour—the "cocktail hour"—and the sidewalks were swelled with strutting humanity. She had difficulty in making her way the five blocks to the spot where she had left teh motor. The chauffeur was reading a newspaper. She smiled as he held the door open for her, to atone for the extra two-hour wait. He was young and, she thought, handsome.

Noble was off schedule, too. Instead of being back at the hotel at six-thirty, as he had promised, he came in at five minutes after seven. Laurel ran to him in her dressing gown like a scared child when she heard him enter the parlor of the suite.

"I was afraid something had happened to you," she exclaimed, snuggling up to him.

"I'm sorry I was delayed,' he said, a little hoarsley.

Laurel drew back. Liquor! And—

She looked again.

On a shoulder of his dark suit coat there was a dim white blur.

She drew close to him again, her eyes searching his. The blur was powder, and its odor made its origin unmistakable.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

© CENTRAL PRESS ASSN

TEN.

The best friend of Noble Harwood in New York City was a man whose acquaintance he had made in business, Charley Buckmaster, president of the company which was the export agent of the National Axle and Bearing Co. He lived with a childless wife, a British woman he had married while a United States counsel in Brazil, in an apartment in Park Avenue, and lived up all of his $40,000 annual income in advance. Mrs. Buckmaster spent her private income of 800 pounds a year upon herself.

The Buckmasters gave the first of the affairs with which Laurel and Noble Harwood were complimented in New York. It was a rather hastily organized affair, with a private dining-room of the apartment house in which the Buckmasters lived as the locale.

The honeymooners had been in the city a week when this took place. They had a suite at the Savoyard, a smart and semi-private hotel in the Fifties, in which they spent a few hours a day. Afternoons were taken up moving about in a low, rakish Minerva town car of pleasing hue which Noble had chartered, together with a chauffeur, for the duration of their stay. They visited all the familiar sights of the city, and invariably joined the procession of motors on Riverside Drive in the late afternoon. Every evening, after dinner at Pierre's, Sherry's, L'Aiglon, Voisin or Elysee, there was a show, the Follies, the Music Box, the Theater Guild, a spectacle at the Century, Walter Hampden's current production, and, the night before the Buckmaster affair, a de luxe presentation of a new Douglas Fairbanks photoplay.

After the theater there was supper at a night club—The Russian Eagle, Texas Guinan's, Ciro's Mecca (before it was padlocked), Mirador; and they rubbed shoulders with notables of society, the stage and the screen. The night they supped at Texas Guinan's they had a table next to Peggy Hopkins Joyce and her current admirer, and saw before they left, at 4 o'clock in the morning, Marjorie Rambeau, Carl Van Vechten and his wife, Sonia Marinoff, George Jean Nathan, Vincent Astor and one of the Vanderbilt heiresses with a suitor. None of these they would have recognized had not the exurberant and raucous La Guinan shouted out the names, attached to some bit of her humor. On another night, at Ciro's, they saw Richard Barthlemess, but Laurel didn't need to have him identified.

This manner of existence was like wine to Laurel. She felt as if she never before lived.

At luncheon at the Crillon on the day of the Buckmaster affair, Noble asked to be excused for the afternoon.

"There are some old acquaintances I really shouldn't neglect," he explained, "and I thought there might be some place you would like to go alone."

She regarded him doubtfully. "Very well, dear."

"You may take the motor, of course. I'll be at the hotel not later than six-thirty. We won't want to be at the Buckmaster's before eight."

"All right, dear." She wondered if these old acquaintances" were women. He had mentioned the names of other persons he had gone to see without h[illegible]. Perhaps he was bored and wanted to spend the afternoon alone. She studied him furtively as they finished the meal.

"Can I drop you off somewhere?" she suggested as they were waiting for the doorman to page their motor.

"No, it isn't far, and I'll walk."

She saw him move away on foot as her car left the place She was seized with an impulse to follow him, just to see where he went. She might have done so had not her motor became entangled in a traffic jam out of which there seemed no exit.

"Along Fifth Avenue,' she had instructed the chauffeur. She had no idea of what she wanted to do. A glimpse of shop windows along the thoroughfare decided her. She wanted to walk along and look into them all. At 53rd street she signalled the driver to turn. "Just wait here, or return in—in an hour," she said, as he drew up at the curb.

In an hour she had not returned to the waiting motor car. Nor in an hour and a half. Feeling like one set down in the midst of the wonder of old Bagdad, she was drinking deeply of the exhilaration of moving about among all the treasures of the world—jewels, precious metals, silks, tapestries, paintings, rare books, sculptured beauties. She wandered into the great departments tores that occupies all of the block from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth street, and in its grown salon saw the afternoon mannequin parade. One model captivated her. It had some of the feeling of an evening gown, but had the long, transparent sleeves that declared it an afternoon frock. The material was soft black crepe, with black chiffon sleeves ending in cuffs of the crepe, and with lovely embroidery in shades of purple and green ornamenting the bodice. It was just the thing for her particular figure.

She opened her purse, knowing that there was no more than ten dollars in it, and regarded the amount. Noble had given her no money; and he had not spoken of an allowance. On the trip he had spent money like a king. In one of the night clubs, she noticed that his tip to the waiter was ten dollars. She could, she knew, have the frock sent to the hotel C. O. D. But she hesitated. She was afraid that it was too soon for her to begin buying clothing at his expense. They had been married less than two weeks, and her trousseau, with its ten gowns and frocks, was supposed to be complete. Reluctantly she left the salon. A clock over the elevator made it known, to her consternation, that it was five o'clock.

It was the parade hour—the "cocktail hour"—and the sidewalks were swelled with strutting humanity. She had difficulty in making her way the five blocks to the spot where she had left teh motor. The chauffeur was reading a newspaper. She smiled as he held the door open for her, to atone for the extra two-hour wait. He was young and, she thought, handsome.

Noble was off schedule, too. Instead of being back at the hotel at six-thirty, as he had promised, he came in at five minutes after seven. Laurel ran to him in her dressing gown like a scared child when she heard him enter the parlor of the suite.

"I was afraid something had happened to you," she exclaimed, snuggling up to him.

"I'm sorry I was delayed,' he said, a little hoarsley.

Laurel drew back. Liquor! And—

She looked again.

On a shoulder of his dark suit coat there was a dim white blur.

She drew close to him again, her eyes searching his. The blur was powder, and its odor made its origin unmistakable.

Endured Misery of Piles for Years

In Agony Most All the Time — Writes This Grateful Letter.

202 Carolina street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with the worst case of piles that you can imagine. For years I tried remedy after remedy without obtaining any lasting benefit, and when the Hamadala Pile Tablets were recommended to me I felt it would be only another useless experiment, but I was willing to take another chance, as I had got to where I was in agony about all the time.

After I commenced taking the second box I began to see results, and today I am absolutely cured of my trouble, and have almost forgotten that I ever had the piles. Hamadala Tablets have made a new man of me, and I want to do everything I can to bring them to the attention of those who are suffering as I was.

Very truly yours, W. STEDMON.

The Hamadala treatment is an inexpensive internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles that comes in tablet form. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by C. G. Anderson, Carnahan's Drug Stores, J. D. Holloway and good druggists.

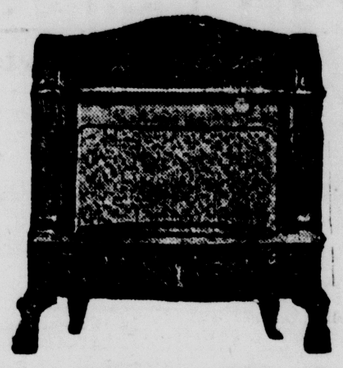
BRILLIANT HEATERS



A Brilliant Heater Will Soon Pay For Itself In the Gas That It Saves

The burner in the Brilliant is essentially different from any other on the market and can be adjusted to fit all local conditions of air, gas, pressure and quality of gas. In this way, it is possible to get entirely away from ill-smelling fumes and unhealthful, unburned gasses. It also means considerable saving in gas bills to have the right mixture of gas and air.

END BUNION PAIN FOREVER

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask Mathews' Medicine Store, or any first class drugist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and further more if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Endured Misery of Piles for Years

In Agony Most All the Time — Writes This Grateful Letter.

202 Carolina street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with the worst case of piles that you can imagine. For years I tried remedy after remedy without obtaining any lasting benefit, and when the Hamadala Pile Tablets were recommended to me I felt it would be only another useless experiment, but I was willing to take another chance, as I had got to where I was in agony about all the time.

After I commenced taking the second box I began to see results, and today I am absolutely cured of my trouble, and have almost forgotten that I ever had the piles. Hamadala Tablets have made a new man of me, and I want to do everything I can to bring them to the attention of those who are suffering as I was.

Very truly yours, W. STEDMON.

The Hamadala treatment is an inexpensive internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles that comes in tablet form. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by C. G. Anderson, Carnahan's Drug Stores, J. D. Holloway and good druggists.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28. — Right along with the annual models of automobiles, the yearly blue books and the perenial changes in lengths of women's skirts, come the 1925 all star teams.

In accordance with the regular custom the all-Ohio conference football eleven of the International News Service has been selected from the consensus of the 10 conference coaches as to their selection of the 11 outstanding players for each position in the state title race. This year's team is fully able to hold its own against those aggregations of the past and where a decade or two ago, the flying wedges and line play predominated, the 1925 team can forge ahead in the score by tricky passes and deceptive shifts.

Third Team Strong, Too.

What would be the outcome of a game between the first and second or the first and third all-star outfits would be only a matter of conjecture, for there is sufficient strength on the third eleven to make it feared against any opponent. There are players not named on any one of the three teams that possess the football qualities desirable in a successful star, players such as Homan of Baldwin-Wallace, Bradley of Wittenber, Burwilden and Poe of Oberlin, Zaebst of Badwin-Wallace, Mulvey of Kenyon, Rapp of St. Xavier, Smith of Ohio, Prosser of Denison and others.

It is only fitting that five of the 11 first team men should be from Ohio Wesleyan, whose season record sparkled and who set a mark worth striving toward by themselves or other Ohio conference teams, and strangely enough, Oberlin, which lost no games but was held to a tie, places no one on the first team, for the Oberlin machine was a smoothly working piece of mechanism, which had no outstanding stars, but every one working evenly to make it a success. Of the other six places, a half dozen different universities are placed. Miami, Wooster, Western Reserve, Akron, Wittenberg and St. Xavier placing representatives.

Live, Strong and Fast.

From end to end, the line is strong and fast. It shows the ability to charge through and break up the opposition's play before they can be started effectively. The ends are speedy, able to get down under the punts and snare their man. The tackles are adept at blocking off their adversaries and permitting their own backfield to gain on the off-tackel plays, than which there is no more successful ground gainer. There is a tower of strength in the center of the line, able to break through and also to open up holes for the crashed and pivot plays.

Like every other backfield, the positions are almost interchangeable. Each man however, is effective in any of the modern football threats and each is fast enough to be a constant menace from the open game formations.

Sharkey of Miami and Wargo of Akron are place at the flanks. They were the outstanding players of mediocre elevens and it was chiefly through their play that the respective teams were not swamped. Their speed and unerring judgment in diagnosis of play and their willingness to smash the interference so that the defensive back could get the ball carrier stamp them of all star quality.

Robert Tilton of Ohio Wesleyan and Bill West of Western Reserve are given the tackle positions. The former has been a whirling derish of defense, playing his job successfully and helping his end with a regularity. West, a massive man-mountain has had few gains made thru his position and has been the one safe spot in the pioneer line.

McCracken Gets Place.

At guards, Frump of Ohio Wesleyan was almost unanimous choice. He stood out above all the other guards, as he did last year, showing all the factors needed for a peerless lineman. He is fast, heavy enough and a deadly tackler with the added intuition of where a play is going. His partner is Layporte of Wooster, another remarkable player and between them, there would be few gains through the center.

Playing between them is McCracken of Ohio Wesleyan, recently chosen as the most valuable player on the battling bishop's squad. He has played alongside of Frump for three years and this pair, with Layporte working well with them, would be the bulkwark of the line defense.

Beichley Good General.

At quarterback Russell Beichley of Wittenberg is selected. Beichley is a three-year star, perhaps not as sensational as some others, but possessing to an acute stage, the generalship so necessary in a quarterback. He handles the ball and his men well. He is a dangerous runner and an exceptionally good defensive quarterback.

At the halves, Eddie Blickle of Ohio Wesleyan, the new star of the Red and Black, was another extremely popular choice. With him is placed Beatty of St. Xavier. This pair can pass, run and plunge well. On the defense, they are hard and effective tacklers. All season, they have been pre-eminent in diagnosing the play of their adversaries and in blocking it before it got far under way.

Turney at fullback is another outstanding selection, the Ohio Wesleyan star being one of the most consistent ground gainers and the leading scorer in the Ohio conference. In addition to his bone breaking line plunges, he is a capable man around the ends and as the end thrower or receiver of passes.

The second all-Ohio places three Oberlin men, two Woosters players, and one each from St. Xavier, Denison, Baldwin - Wallace, Miami, Ohio Wesleyan and Kenyon. It's line with Pfeifer and Hastings at ends, Raikula and Gurney at the tackles, Schmidt and Mitchell at guards and Wagner at center is a powerful front, able to bear heavy attacks and to throw opponents for losses with some regularity. It can open up holes and get through to block the defensive backs.

With Siskovic at quarter, the redoubtable Harley Pearce and Stryker at the halves and Peters at full, there is a mighty backfield, powerful in all driving, running and passing plays and perhaps even speedier than the first team backfield.

COLLEGE GRID SEASON AT END

Big Clash of Day is Army-Navy Game in New York.

By GEORGE BARRY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Collegiate football's swan song will be sounded this afternoon. The season will not close officially until the University of Southern California gets a couple of more games out of its system, but the majority of football stadiums will close their doors for the season at nightfall today.

The big game of the day, of course, will be the annual Army and Navy contest at the Polo grounds. However, there are several additional games of more than minor importance to be decided.

Southern California will try to improve its standing in the coast conference by beating Washington State at Los Angeles. The odds are all in favor of the former, which has lost only one game this season and has run up an impressive total of points on its various rivals.

The annual Holy Cross- Boston college game probably lacks its significance of other years, but it might decide the Catholic college championship of eastern football. If Holy Cross can win, the title probably will go to Georgetown by tacit consent, as the latter won from Fordham, which lost to Georgetown by several touchdowns.

The Lehigh-Carnegie Tech game at Pittsburgh looks like a cross country run for the Scotsmen, whose record this year is not unimpressive, in spite of defeats by Pittsburgh and Notre Dame.

Loyola, using the Notre Dame system, will try conclusions with the Haskell Indians at Chicago and an affair of more than ordinary interest should be the outcome. An intersectional game at Dayton, between Bucknell and Dayton and a meeting between South Carolina and Center college will conclude the program for the day.

The Polo Grounds, according to announcement made today by officials of the New York ball club, will seat 67,000 for the event and indications were that every ticket would be sold long before game time. Grange will come here as a member of the Chicago Bears to play a national football league contest against the New York Giants.

STATE CAGERS RESUME WORK

Recruits From Grid Team to Report Next Week.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—After a respite of nearly a week, Ohio State's basketball squad will plunge into intensive training Monday for the forthcoming season. Due to the interruption of the Thanksgiving holiday and with a desire to give the football men a rest after their arduous campaign, Coach Harold G. Olsen presided over but one practice session this week.

Half a dozen or more recruits from the football contingent are expected to report next week for basketball. Chief among them is "Cookie" Cunningham, all-Conference center, who will be entering his third and final varsity campaign in the Big Ten.

"Red" Seiffer, back guard and captain of the current Big Ten champions, will have two if not three new running mates during the coming winter. The Buckeyes, with one of the best teams in Big Ten history last winter, lost three of the five regulars on the championship quintet by graduation. They were Captain "Jake" Cameron, former Captain Johnny Miner and Mel Shaw, forward.

Whether Bill Hunt will be able to report soon is another question that the Buckeyes would like to have answered. Hunt was the first casualty of the football season, sustaining a broken leg. He is out and around again but there is no certainty as to how soon he can stand the basketball pace. He was the sixth man a year ago and his presence would come in handy.

Other members of the football squad who are potential candidates for basketball include Parker Bloser and George Woorlein, from last winter, and Robin Bell and Fred Grim, sophomore.

EARL BRITTON MAY JOIN BEARS

Illinois Star Confers With Pro Team Officials.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Earl Britton, Illinois fullback and chief interferer for Grange for the past three years, conferred with officials of the Chicago Bears, National league professional football team, here today.

Britton, who has just completed his collegiate career, arrived in the city yesterday and immediately took under consideration the Bears' offer to participate in the remaining games of the season as a running mate to Grange.

Nothing could be learned of the conference, but it was rumored today that Britton had accepted terms and would play against Columbus Sunday. Grange and his manager, C. C. Pyle, are said to have been instrumental in getting Britton to join the Bears.

CADETS ARE FAVORITES BY ONLY SLIGHT MARGIN

West Pointers Expected to Have Better Running Game With Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell Ready to go; Heavy Field, However, Considered Favorable to Weighty Line of Middies.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK Nov. 28.—They say the shot at Sarajevo rang around the World but there will be a whistle at the Polo Grounds this afternoon that will find an echo in Port Said, Honolulu, Singapore and Fort Wayne, Ind. It will be the whistle that will start and finish the annual Army and Navy football game.

Somewhere in the South seas, a lonely navy officer on a lonely destroyer will hear its shrill music and will throb to its sound. Somewhere in an isolated army post, an officer will snap to attention at its echo. It has been so almost since time immemorial.

As a matter of fact, it started back in 1899 and the boys have been at it ever since, barring a cessation during the late unpleasantness in Europe. It happens to be the big moment and the last moment in collegiate football and the occasion is worth a series of typographical shouts from any man's typewriter.

Will Be Colorful Squad.

Somehow, it has come to be the custom to sob journalistic tears over the spectacle of the Army grey and the Navy blue and the writer is a slave to precedent. In fact, he can out-sob the next, if need be.

Therefore, be it known to all men by these presents: That the Army and Navy will meet in this greatest of all spectacles for the twenty-eighth time with the full, complete and entire corps of both academies in the stands. The writer wishes to use the exclusive announcement that they will be in uniform and it is his exclusive understanding that they will march on the field before the game. He would hate to be wrong about either statement.

Of course, a nice time will be had by all. Fair weather, with a heavy gridiron from recent rains, was forecast and upward of 60,000 of the dear, old populace, including Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, will view the proceedings. There would be more people present if it wasn't for the fact that the man who built the Polo Grounds used concrete instead of India rubber for the walls, with a reprehensible lack of foresight or something.

Navy Goat Breaks Loose.

The Army was the slightest kind of a favorite but Navy men took heart from the fact that their goat broke loose on Broadway last night and nosed an innocent bystander through the window of a Greek restaurant. This was supposed to be the most favorable kind of an omen. The last time the Navy lost, the goat aimed for the window of a Greek restaurant and hit a coal wagon full of rubber match sticks.

The Army was favored, however, because it seemed to have the better record and it was none too good, at that. It lost two games this year to Yale and Columbia and the Navy lost only one but while it was about it, a thoroughgoing job was made of the position. Michigan won the game in question by a mere matter of 54 to 0. One of the worst disasters, competitively speaking, in Navy history.

Otherwise, however, the Navy record was fool-proof and the boys were inclined to state that the Michigan thing was something of a vast mistake. There were all kinds of rumors around town today of a great Navy running attack, developed under cover at Annapolis, and a fine passing play from Shapley to Flippin and vice versa.

Battle Will Be Close.

The Army also was supposed to have a commendable command of the overhead game and undoubtedly figured to have the better of the running game with such backs as Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell ready to go. However, the heavy condition of the field not only figured to hamper these excellent young men but also favored the Navy line, which was much heavier than the Army's.

There was a possibility that either or both would score from the field, the Army in particular having a youth, Reeder by name and accurate by nature, who was said to be infallible inside the 40 yard line. The trick, of course, was to bet inside the 40 yard line in the first place.

The game, as a matter of fact, figured to be the closest of recent years and nearly all Army and Navy affairs are closer than a pair of nostrils. Just by way of showing how these archrivals play each other, the series stood thirteen victories for the Army, twelve for the Navy and two games ended in a tie.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28. — Right along with the annual models of automobiles, the yearly blue books and the perenial changes in lengths of women's skirts, come the 1925 all star teams.

In accordance with the regular custom the all-Ohio conference football eleven of the International News Service has been selected from the consensus of the 10 conference coaches as to their selection of the 11 outstanding players for each position in the state title race. This year's team is fully able to hold its own against those aggregations of the past and where a decade or two ago, the flying wedges and line play predominated, the 1925 team can forge ahead in the score by tricky passes and deceptive shifts.

Third Team Strong, Too.

What would be the outcome of a game between the first and second or the first and third all-star outfits would be only a matter of conjecture, for there is sufficient strength on the third eleven to make it feared against any opponent. There are players not named on any one of the three teams that possess the football qualities desirable in a successful star, players such as Homan of Baldwin-Wallace, Bradley of Wittenber, Burwilden and Poe of Oberlin, Zaebst of Badwin-Wallace, Mulvey of Kenyon, Rapp of St. Xavier, Smith of Ohio, Prosser of Denison and others.

It is only fitting that five of the 11 first team men should be from Ohio Wesleyan, whose season record sparkled and who set a mark worth striving toward by themselves or other Ohio conference teams, and strangely enough, Oberlin, which lost no games but was held to a tie, places no one on the first team, for the Oberlin machine was a smoothly working piece of mechanism, which had no outstanding stars, but every one working evenly to make it a success. Of the other six places, a half dozen different universities are placed Miami, Wooster, Western Reserve, Akron, Wittenberg and St. Xavier placing representatives.

Live, Strong and Fast.

From end to end, the line is strong and fast. It shows the ability to charge through and break up the opposition's play before they can be started effectively. The ends are speedy, able to get down under the punts and snare their man. The tackles are adept at blocking off their adversaries and permitting their own backfield to gain on the off-tackel plays, than which there is no more successful ground gainer. There is a tower of strength in the center of the line, able to break through and also to open up holes for the crashed and pivot plays.

Like every other backfield, the positions are almost interchangeable. Each man however, is effective in any of the modern football threats and each is fast enough to be a constant menace from the open game formations.

Sharkey of Miami and Wargo of Akron are place at the flanks. They were the outstanding players of mediocre elevens and it was chiefly through their play that the respective teams were not swamped. Their speed and unerring judgment in diagnosis of play and their willingness to smash the interference so that the defensive back could get the ball carrier stamp them of all star quality.

Robert Tilton of Ohio Wesleyan and Bill West of Western Reserve are given the tackle positions. The former has been a whirling derish of defense, playing his job successfully and helping his end with a regularity. West, a massive man-mountain has had few gains made thru his position and has been the one safe spot in the pioneer line.

McCracken Gets Place.

At guards, Frump of Ohio Wesleyan was almost unanimous choice. He stood out above all the other guards, as he did last year, showing all the factors needed for a peerless lineman. He is fast, heavy enough and a deadly tackler with the added intuition of where a play is going. His partner is Layporte of Wooster, another remarkable player and between them, there would be few gains through the center.

Playing between them is McCracken of Ohio Wesleyan, recently chosen as the most valuable player on the battling bishop's squad. He has played alongside of Frump for three years and this pair, with Layporte working well with them, would be the bulkwark of the line defense.

Beichley Good General.

At quarterback Russell Beichley of Wittenberg is selected. Beichley is a three-year star, perhaps not as sensational as some others, but possessing to an acute stage, the generalship so necessary in a quarterback. He handles the ball and his men well. He is a dangerous runner and an exceptionally good defensive quarterback.

At the halves, Eddie Blickle of Ohio Wesleyan, the new star of the Red and Black, was another extremely popular choice. With him is placed Beatty of St. Xavier. This pair can pass, run and plunge well. On the defense, they are hard and effective tacklers. All season, they have been pre-eminent in diagnosing the play of their adversaries and in blocking it before it got far under way.

Turney at fullback is another outstanding selection, the Ohio Wesleyan star being one of the most consistent ground gainers and the leading scorer in the Ohio conference. In addition to his bone breaking line plunges, he is a capable man around the ends and as the end thrower or receiver of passes.

The second all-Ohio places three Oberlin men, two Woosters players, and one each from St. Xavier, Denison, Baldwin - Wallace, Miami, Ohio Wesleyan and Kenyon. It's line with Pfeifer and Hastings at ends, Raikula and Gurney at the tackles, Schmidt and Mitchell at guards and Wagner at center is a powerful front, able to bear heavy attacks and to throw opponents for losses with some regularity. It can open up holes and get through to block the defensive backs.

With Siskovic at quarter, the redoubtable Harley Pearce and Stryker at the halves and Peters at full, there is a mighty backfield, powerful in all driving, running and passing plays and perhaps even speedier than the first team backfield.

COLLEGE GRID SEASON AT END

Big Clash of Day is Army-Navy Game in New York.

By GEORGE BARRY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Collegiate football's swan song will be sounded this afternoon. The season will not close officially until the University of Southern California gets a couple of more games out of its system, but the majority of football stadiums will close their doors for the season at nightfall today.

The big game of the day, of course, will be the annual Army and Navy contest at the Polo grounds. However, there are several additional games of more than minor importance to be decided.

Southern California will try to improve its standing in the coast conference by beating Washington State at Los Angeles. The odds are all in favor of the former, which has lost only one game this season and has run up an impressive total of points on its various rivals.

The annual Holy Cross- Boston college game probably lacks its significance of other years, but it might decide the Catholic college championship of eastern football. If Holy Cross can win, the title probably will go to Georgetown by tacit consent, as the latter won from Fordham, which lost to Georgetown by several touchdowns.

The Lehigh-Carnegie Tech game at Pittsburgh looks like a cross country run for the Scotsmen, whose record this year is not unimpressive, in spite of defeats by Pittsburgh and Notre Dame.

Loyola, using the Notre Dame system, will try conclusions with the Haskell Indians at Chicago and an affair of more than ordinary interest should be the outcome. An intersectional game at Dayton, between Bucknell and Dayton and a meeting between South Carolina and Center college will conclude the program for the day.

250,000 See Contests In Buckeye Stadium

NEW YORK NEXT ON RED'S CARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—In anticipation of a wild scramble by local football fans, tickets for "Red" Grange's debut before a New York crowd, December 6, will be placed on sale tomorrow. The Polo Grounds, according to announcement made today by officials of the New York ball club, will seat 67,000 for the event and indications were that every ticket would be sold long before game time. Grange will come here as a member of the Chicago Bears to play a national football league contest against the New York Giants.

STATE CAGERS RESUME WORK

Recruits From Grid Team to Report Next Week.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—After a respite of nearly a week, Ohio State's basketball squad will plunge into intensive training Monday for the forthcoming season. Due to the interruption of the Thanksgiving holiday and with a desire to give the football men a rest after their arduous campaign, Coach Harold G. Olsen presided over but one practice session this week.

Half a dozen or more recruits from the football contingent are expected to report next week for basketball. Chief among them is "Cookie" Cunningham, all-Conference center, who will be entering his third and final varsity campaign in the Big Ten.

"Red" Seiffer, back guard and captain of the current Big Ten champions, will have two if not three new running mates during the coming winter. The Buckeyes, with one of the best teams in Big Ten history last winter, lost three of the five regulars on the championship quintet by graduation. They were Captain "Jake" Cameron, former Captain Johnny Miner and Mel Shaw, forward.

Whether Bill Hunt will be able to report soon is another question that the Buckeyes would like to have answered. Hunt was the first casualty of the football season, sustaining a broken leg. He is out and around again but there is no certainty as to how soon he can stand the basketball pace. He was the sixth man a year ago and his presence would come in handy.

Other members of the football squad who are potential candidates for basketball include Parker Bloser and George Woorlein, from last winter, and Robin Bell and Fred Grim, sophomore.

EARL BRITTON MAY JOIN BEARS

Illinois Star Confers With Pro Team Officials.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Earl Britton, Illinois fullback and chief interferer for Grange for the past three years, conferred with officials of the Chicago Bears, National league professional football team, here today.

Britton, who has just completed his collegiate career, arrived in the city yesterday and immediately took under consideration the Bears' offer to participate in the remaining games of the season as a running mate to Grange.

Nothing could be learned of the conference, but it was rumored today that Britton had accepted terms and would play against Columbus Sunday. Grange and his manager, C. C. Pyle, are said to have been instrumental in getting Britton to join the Bears.

CADETS ARE FAVORITES BY ONLY SLIGHT MARGIN

West Pointers Expected to Have Better Running Game With Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell Ready to go; Heavy Field, However, Considered Favorable to Weighty Line of Middies.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK Nov. 28.—They say the shot at Sarajevo rang around the World but there will be a whistle at the Polo Grounds this afternoon that will find an echo in Port Said, Honolulu, Singapore and Fort Wayne, Ind. It will be the whistle that will start and finish the annual Army and Navy football game.

Somewhere in the South seas, a lonely navy officer on a lonely destroyer will hear its shrill music and will throb to its sound. Somewhere in an isolated army post, an officer will snap to attention at its echo. It has been so almost since time immemorial.

As a matter of fact, it started back in 1899 and the boys have been at it ever since, barring a cessation during the late unpleasantness in Europe. It happens to be the big moment and the last moment in collegiate football and the occasion is worth a series of typographical shouts from any man's typewriter.

Will Be Colorful Squad.

Somehow, it has come to be the custom to sob journalistic tears over the spectacle of the Army grey and the Navy blue and the writer is a slave to precedent. In fact, he can out-sob the next, if need be.

Therefore, be it known to all men by these presents: That the Army and Navy will meet in this greatest of all spectacles for the twenty-eighth time with the full, complete and entire corps of both academies in the stands. The writer wishes to use the exclusive announcement that they will be in uniform and it is his exclusive understanding that they will march on the field before the game. He would hate to be wrong about either statement.

Of course, a nice time will be had by all. Fair weather, with a heavy gridiron from recent rains, was forecast and upward of 60,000 of the dear, old populace, including Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, will view the proceedings. There would be more people present if it wasn't for the fact that the man who built the Polo Grounds used concrete instead of India rubber for the walls, with a reprehensible lack of foresight or something.

Navy Goat Breaks Loose.

The Army was the slightest kind of a favorite but Navy men took heart from the fact that their goat broke loose on Broadway last night and nosed an innocent bystander through the window of a Greek restaurant. This was supposed to be the most favorable kind of an omen. The last time the Navy lost, the goat aimed for the window of a Greek restaurant and hit a coal wagon full of rubber match sticks.

The Army was favored, however, because it seemed to have the better record and it was none too good, at that. It lost two games this year to Yale and Columbia and the Navy lost only one but while it was about it, a thoroughgoing job was made of the position. Michigan won the game in question by a mere matter of 54 to 0. One of the worst disasters, competitively speaking, in Navy history.

Otherwise, however, the Navy record was fool-proof and the boys were inclined to state that the Michigan thing was something of a vast mistake. There were all kinds of rumors around town today of a great Navy running attack, developed under cover at Annapolis, and a fine passing play from Shapley to Flippin and vice versa.

Battle Will Be Close.

The Army also was supposed to have a commendable command of the overhead game and undoubtedly figured to have the better of the running game with such backs as Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell ready to go. However, the heavy condition of the field not only figured to hamper these excellent young men but also favored the Navy line, which was much heavier than the Army's.

There was a possibility that either or both would score from the field, the Army in particular having a youth, Reeder by name and accurate by nature, who was said to be infallible inside the 40 yard line. The trick, of course, was to bet inside the 40 yard line in the first place.

The game, as a matter of fact, figured to be the closest of recent years and nearly all Army and Navy affairs are closer than a pair of nostrils. Just by way of showing how these archrivals play each other, the series stood thirteen victories for the Army, twelve for the Navy and two games ended in a tie.

CLOSE OPTIONS ON STATE PARK

Acquire 500 Acres of Land Near Guilford Dam.

Options on the tract of some 500 acres of land in Hanover township, to be included in the proposed Guilford state park, are now being closed by a representative of the state department of highways and public works.

In a bill, passed at the last session of the legislature, approximately $31,500 was appropriated for the purchase of the necessary land. While the bill became a law during the summer, the state highway department failed to act on the options which they held until this month.

Money has been provided to close up the gaps in the dam in order to make the proposed fish hatchery, sponsored by officials of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, a realty. It is believed that these improvements will be started early next spring.

Several cottages probably will be erected at Guilford next year. A number of residences were built last summer after the state park became a certainty. A group of sportsmen are said to be planning the erection of a summer hotel, which would have rooming accommodations for about 25 persons.

The county commissioners are expected to improve the road from the county home to the park within the near future.

Court Will Pass Upon Will of Late Mrs. Mary Martin

Mrs. Myrtle Risinger, of East Liverpool, through her counsel, Attorney B. H. Cochran and Lones, Hill & Davidson, has entered an action in common pleas court at Lisbon to determine whether the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Headley Martin, of this city, admitted to probate October 26, was the last made by the deceased.

The petition declares that Mrs. Martin was survived by no husband or children at the time of her death and that Mrs. Risinger and other plaintiffs in the petition are children of Harrison Headley, now deceased, who was a brother of Mary Headley Martin.

In a will bearing the date of July 18, 1925, which was probated shortly after Mrs. Martin's death, the estate is bequeathed to Caroline Cook and others. The plaintiff claims that another will of a more recent date exists.

CLOSE OPTIONS ON STATE PARK

Acquire 500 Acres of Land Near Guilford Dam.

Options on the tract of some 500 acres of land in Hanover township, to be included in the proposed Guilford state park, are now being closed by a representative of the state department of highways and public works.

In a bill, passed at the last session of the legislature, approximately $31,500 was appropriated for the purchase of the necessary land. While the bill became a law during the summer, the state highway department failed to act on the options which they hold until this month.

Money has been provided to close up the gaps in the dam in order to make the proposed fish hatchery, sponsored by officials of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, a realty. It is believed that these improvements will be started early next spring.

Several cottages probably will be erected at Guilford next year. A number of residences were built last summer after the state park became a certainty. A group of sportsmen are said to be planning the erection of a summer hotel, which would have rooming accommodations for about 25 persons.

The county commissioners are expected to improve the road from the county home to the park within the near future.

Court Will Pass Upon Will of Late Mrs. Mary Martin

Mrs. Myrtle Risinger, of East Liverpool, through her counsel, Attorney B. H. Cochran and Lones, Hill & Davidson, has entered an action in common pleas court at Lisbon to determine whether the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Headley Martin, of this city, admitted to probate October 26, was the last made by the deceased.

The petition declares that Mrs. Martin was survived by no husband or children at the time of her death and that Mrs. Risinger and other plaintiffs in the petition are children of Harrison Headley, now deceased, who was a brother of Mary Headley Martin.

In a will bearing the date of July 18, 1925, which was probated shortly after Mrs. Martin's death, the estate is bequeathed to Caroline Cook and others. The plaintiff claims that another will of a more recent date exists.

Ten millions, old and young, are asking, "Why did I eat too much? And that measures our civilization. We shall not learn to think, until we at least learn how to eat, and not to eat too much.

African savages capture a hippopotamus, eat all their distended stomachs can hold, lie down beside the carcass, sleep, wake, eat more, sleep again, and so on.

Some die of ptomaine poisoning, as the meat gets bad, the survivors think they have had a good time, and give thanks to the pink nosed idol that they happen to worship.

We improve on the hippopotamus eaters, and the old Romans, with large marble receptacles, to which they returned food previously swallowed, that they might swallow more.

But our eating, like our thinking and our ideas of justice, are of an age 1,000 years behind our scientific age. We are nearer to cannibalism than to civilization. One-half the adults do not even know enough to protect their children from the effects of gorging.

JUMPS THRU ROOF

Members of Another Family Escape From Dwelling.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 28.—Two persons perished in a fire which destroyed the double dwelling occupied by the families of John W. Wilson and Joseph C. Shade in Williamsburg, Pa., near here, today.

The victims were Mrs. Anna Wilson, 50, wife of John Wilson, and her mother, Mrs. Maria Slonaker, 84, who lived with the Wilsons.

Wilson, after trying in vain to rescue his wife and mother-in-law, jumped out of a second story window. In doing so, he plunged through a porch roof, being bruised as well as burned. He was taken to the Altoona hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical.

All members of the Shade family escaped unhurt. The cause of the fire is not known.

Alleged Hit-skip Motorist Will Pay Victim's Expenses

Christ Christman, West Fourth street potter, who is alleged to have run down and injured James McCullough, St. Clair avenue man, on Pennsylvania avenue, a week ago today, was arraigned before Mayor Brown, last evening, upon a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

Christman, at first, denied any knowledge of the accident, but two girls who were passengers in the car with him testified that they had told him he had struck McCullough, but he refused to stop. Christman agreed to pay the hospital and doctor bill of McCullough, who is suffering from fractures of the nose, arm and hand.

The charge is being held against Christman pending the complete recovery of his victim. He is at liberty on his own recognizance.

G. M. Wilson Will Lecture on Sunday To Bible Students

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28.—Al Williams almost held the world's caveman record in these parts today. Police took him in tow for kicking O'Neill Simms, a woman, in the head, and for pitching Cora Haywood through a second story window. Cora took the sash with her and landed head first on the sidewalk below. The racket was said to have started at a drinking party.

Hangs up World's Record by Playing Piano 52 Hours

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28. — B. G. Burt, 42, of Jamestown, N. Y., established what is claimed to be a world's record here early this morning by continuously playing a piano for 52 hours and 20 minutes. He also won a side bet of $1,000.

Camilla Baucia, another contender, dropped out after playing 52 hours and 15 minutes.

MAYOR MARKS TIME ON PAY SLASH MEASURE

Brown Fails to Act on Ordinance at 2 p. m.

VETO PREDICTED

"I Have Not Had Time to Read it," Executive Says.

Mayor Charles Brown was marking time today, the last day of grace, on the councilmanic ordinance slashing Mayor-elect Ralph C. Benedum's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 a year.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the executive had taken no action on the proposal.

"I probably will take up the ordinance after 3 o'clock this afternoon," the mayor declared shortly before noon. "The ordinance has been on my desk since it was handed to me and I have not yet had an opportunity to read it but have definitely decided what I shall do with it."

Personal friends of the executive predict he will veto the measure. He is said to have confided to individuals that he is opposed to the legislation and will send it back to council with his veto. This is the tenth day that the enactment has been in his possession and he must either sign or veto it today or it automatically becomes a law without his signature.

If he vetoes the ordiance virtually all hopes of reducing the mayor's salary for at least two years is gone, inasmuch as no salary fixing legislation is permitted during a tenure of office.

The ordinance was adopted by a vote of 4 to 3. To pass it over the mayor's veto would require at least five votes, while six votes would be necessary to suspend the rules and pass it at one meeting. Even though one of the opponents should change his vote, the ordinance could not be passed in time to advertise it for 30 days before January 1.

Arrest Made Here After Hanover Home Is Reported Looted

Elliott upon a charge of disorderly conduct in connection with the alleged looting of the home of P. A. Whitacre who resides on the Lincoln highway between Hanover and Kensington.

Whitacre charges that several turkeys, a goose and a revolver were taken by several men who visited his home during his absence. Whitacre notified Sheriff Wright, who ordered the arrest of Jackson.

Jackson will be given a hearing at Lisbon Monday. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned here.

NINE INJURED WHEN BUILDING HOUSING DANCE CLUB CRUMBLES

Three Women and Six Men Buried Under Wreckage.

DIG OUT VICTIMS

New York Cabaret Habitues Plunge Into Deep Excavation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — Three women and six men were injured early today when a wall collapsed in a four-story building housing the Arena club, a cabaret. The victims were catapulated into a deep cellar excavation and buried under an avalanche of wreckage.

Police reserves held back thousands who gathered to watch firemen and police digging in the ruins for buried victims. Firemen said that the beam anchorages may have been weakened by blasting for the building next door and by the dancing of hundreds in the cabaret.

A repetition of the Pickwick club disaster in Boston was averted only by the fact that all the dancers had left the cabaret, police declared.

Man Supports Section of Building

Two heavy beams fell on Benjamin Sanders, a porter, breaking both of his legs. A piano which Miss Ruby Sunshine was playing fell almost on top of her. Miss Mazie Marshall, a dancer, was found under a beam she had clutched when the building crumbled. She sustained internal injuries.

When firemen arrived they found Frank Timpone on the second floor holding up a section of the building by a beam on his shoulder. He said he feared to let go because the whole building would fall on the others if he released his hold.

YULE TREES ON SIDEWALKS

Christmas Decorations Will be Arranged by Stores.

Decorated Christmas trees, some of them illuminated with electric lights, are to be erected on the sidewalks in front of the downtown stores during the yule shopping season.

Representatives of the Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, through the advertising committee, yesterday entered into a contract with Clarence E. West to furnish and decorate the trees. The trees will be placed in the flag sockets at the curbing. They will be in position not later than December 15.

This will be the first time in history that the merchants have adopted this plan of advertising.

The merchants' division will start its Christmas shopping campaign immediately. Fares will be refunded to out-of-town shoppers every shopping day in December prior to Christmas by the fare refunding association.

STOCKHOLDERS OF FIRST NATIONAL AND CITIZENS WILL VOTE UPON PLAN

Consolidation of Two Institutions, Which Has Been Given O. K. of Comptroller of Currency, is Subject to Approval at Meeting Called for Monday, December 28, Officials Announce.

ARRANGEMENT WILL BE EFFECTED AS OF JAN. 5, UNDER FIRST BANK'S NAME

Merging of Interests, Prompted by Fact That Citizens' Bank Has Outgrown Its Present Quarters, Will Give City $4,500,000 Institution Which Will be Housed in Fifth Street Home.

With the approval of the comptroller of the currency, arrangements are being made for a proposed merger of the First National and Citizens' National banks, it was announced today by officials of the two institutions.

The proposed consolidation, which is subject to the approval of the stockholders of both banks, will be voted upon at a stockholders' meeting on Monday, December 28.

The merger is to be effected as of January 5, 1926, and the business is to be conducted under the name and charter of the First National bank in the new home of that institution in Fifth street.

The combined interests of the two institutions will give East Liverpool a $4,500,000 bank.

Oldest and Largest Bank.

The Citizens' National bank found that it had outgrown its present banking home and decided that it was necessary either to build an entirely new banking building or remodel its present quarters, either of which projects involved a large expenditure of money, delay and inconvenience to its patrons. The First National bank has a new bank building and modern equipment sufficient in every respect for the needs of both institutions.

The Directors, seeing the wisdom and advantage of a consolidation that would give Columbiana county one big banking institution without any addition construction expense, approved the plan.

The First National Bank, which was established in 1874, is not only the oldest but also the largest of East Liverpool's financial institutions. It has capital and surplus of $400,000, deposits of more than $2,800,00 and aggregate resources exceeding $3,500,000.

Citizens Founded in 1897

The Citizens' National, founded in 1897, has capital, surplus and profits of about $300,000, deposits of $700,000 and resources of more than $1,100,000.

Both institutions do a general banking business, handle individual checking accounts, pay four per cent interest on savings and supply safe deposit and foreign exchange service. Under authorization of the federal reserve board, the First National bank also maintains an active and growing trust department which is authorized and equipped to serve in all fiduciary capacities.

John J. Purinton is the president of the First National bank and John W. Vodrey is president of the Citizens' National bank.

Pool Room Operator Is Charged With Permitting Gambling

RIVER ROAD BUS LOOP MAY BE DISCONTINUED; UPPER ST. GEORGE STREET TERMINUS IS PROPOSED

The River Road bus will discontinue the Virginia avenue, Pennsylvania avenue, Mulberry street loop and will establish its East End terminus at the upper end of St. George street, under the terms of an ordinance, which Solicitor Harry Brokaw, was instructed to prepare by the municipal legislature body last night.

The change in the route, which has the approval of officials of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company will give better transportation facilities to all residents east of Mulberry street and south of the Pennsylvania railroad, council pointed out.

The plan will eliminate the Mulberry street railroad crossing. The bus, after leaving the River road, will travel along St. George street to the old McLean Tire company's plant, where it will turn and follow the same route back to the Diamond.

Few Passengers Transfer.

Councilman Kerr said that but few passengers transfer from the main line car to the River road but at the Mulberry street junction. Most of the passengers, he declared, board the bus along St. George street. The change would also benefit many workers at the Laughlin pottery and serve to relieve congestion on the main line, it is pointed out.

Solon Hayes declared that the traction company opposed the plan of crossing the tracks at Virginia avenue because a state law prohibited bus crossings where no watchmen were employed. The traction company representatives, however, expressed a willingness to eliminate the Mulberry street section entirely, operating to the east end of St. George street instead.

Councilman Chambers, after the discussion, offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to prepare an ordinance calling for a change in the street car company's franchise with regard to the bus route. The motion was succeeded by Councilman Kerr and passed, with members voting favorably. The legislation probably will be enacted at the next meeting.

Police Equipment Issue.

Debate followed Councilman Fred Eardley's introduction of an ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase "caps and equipment, such as guns and maces for members of the police department."

Councilman Farrall inquired whether it was customary for the city to purchase caps for the police Eardley replied that it was the custom, but explained that the state examiner had notified the city auditor tha legislation providing for his expenditure must be enacted in the future. He said that the city purchased caps, coats and boots for firemen and that it was no more than fair to furnish them for the police.

"I am opposed to buying clothing for the police," said Farrall. "Our officers are getting a fair salary and should buy their own clothing. Some one is trying to push this thing over because they are going out of office, but I am here to safeguard the rights of the people until my term expires."

"I am not trying to push anything across but am merely following the suggestions of the state examiner," replied Eardley. "It always has been customary to furnish the police with caps and equipment."

Vote on Ordinance 5 to 2.

Upon first reading Kerr and Farrall voted "no," on the ordinance, while Hayes, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley announced "yes." The ordinance lacked the necessary three-fourths majority to suspend the rules in order to place it on second reading when Kerr and Farrall stood pat.

Kerr offered a motion that a committee be named to investigate Eardley's claim that the city has been purchasing caps for both firemen and policemen.

"If this is customary, all well and

AGED MOTHER AND DAUGHTER DIE IN BLAZE NEAR ALTOONA

Man Injured After Vain Attempt to Rescue Victims.

JUMPS THRU ROOF

Members of Another Family Escape From Dwelling.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 28.—Two persons perished in a fire which destroyed the double dwelling occupied by the families of John W. Wilson and Joseph C. Shade in Williamsburg, Pa., near here, today.

The victims were Mrs. Anna Wilson, 50, wife of John Wilson, and her mother, Mrs. Maria Slonaker, 81, who lived with the Wilsons.

Wilson, after trying in vain to rescue his wife and mother-in-law, jumped out of a second story window. In doing so, he plunged through a porch roof, being bruised as well as burned. He was taken to the Altoona hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical.

All members of the Shade family escaped unhurt. The cause of the fire is not known.

Alleged Hit-skip Motorist Will Pay Victim's Expenses

Christ Christman, West Fourth street potter, who is alleged to have run down and injured James McCullough, St. Clair avenue man, on Pennsylvania avenue, a week ago today, was arraigned before Mayor Brown, last evening, upon a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

Christman, at first, denied any knowledge of the accident, but two girls who were passengers in the car with him testified that they had told him he had struck McCullough, but he refused to stop. Christman agreed to pay the hospital and doctor bill of McCullough, who is suffering from fractures of the nose, arm and hand.

The charge is being held against Christman pending the complete recovery of his victim. He is at liberty on his own recognizance.

Meet Champion Caveman.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28.—Al Williams almost held the world's caveman record in these parts today. Cora took the sash with her and landed head first on the sidewalk below. The racket was said to have started at a drinking party.

MAYOR MARKS TIME ON PAY SLASH MEASURE

Brown Fails to Act on Ordinance at 2 p. m.

VETO PREDICTED

"I Have Not Had Time to Read it," Executive Says.

Mayor Charles Brown was marking time today, the last day of grace, on the councilmanic ordinance slashing Mayor-elect Ralph C. Benedum's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 a year.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the executive had taken no action on the proposal.

"I probably will take up the ordinance after 3 o'clock this afternoon," the mayor declared shortly before noon. "The ordinance has been on my desk since it was handed to me and I have not yet had an opportunity to read it but have definitely decided what I shall do with it."

Personal friends of the executive predict he will veto the measure. He is said to have confided to individuals that he is opposed to the legislation and will send it back to council with his veto. This is the tenth day that the enactment has been in his possession and he must either sign or veto it today or it automatically becomes a law without his signature.

If he vetoes the ordiance virtually all hopes of reducing the mayor's salary for at least two years is gone, inasmuch as no salary fixing legislation is permitted during a tenure of office.

The ordinance was adopted by a vote of 4 to 3. To pass it over the mayor's veto would require at least five votes, while six votes would be necessary to suspend the rules and pass it at one meeting. Even though one of the opponents should change his vote, the ordinance could not be passed in time to advertise it for 30 days before January 1.

Jackson will be given a hearing at Lisbon Monday. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned here.

NINE INJURED WHEN BUILDING HOUSING DANCE CLUB CRUMBLES

Three Women and Six Men Buried Under Wreckage.

DIG OUT VICTIMS

New York Cabaret Habitues Plunge Into Deep Excavation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — Three women and six men were injured early today when a wall collapsed in a four-story building housing the Arena club, a cabaret. The victims were catapulated into a deep cellar excavation and buried under an avalanche of wreckage.

Police reserves held back thousands who gathered to watch firemen and police digging in the ruins for buried victims. Firemen said that the beam anchorages may have been weakened by blasting for the building next door and by the dancing of hundreds in the cabaret.

A repetition of the Pickwick club disaster in Boston was averted only by the fact that all the dancers had left the cabaret, police declared.

Man Supports Section of Building

Two heavy beams fell on Benjamin Sanders, a porter, breaking both of his legs. A piano which Miss Ruby Sunshine was playing fell almost on top of her. Miss Mazie Marshall, a dancer, was found under a beam she had clutched when the building crumbled. She sustained internal injuries.

When firemen arrived they found Frank Timpone on the second floor holding up a section of the building by a beam on his shoulder. He said he feared to let go because the whole building would fall on the others if he released his hold.

YULE TREES ON SIDEWALKS

Christmas Decorations Will be Arranged by Stores.

Decorated Christmas trees, some of them illuminated with electric lights, are to be erected on the sidewalks in front of the downtown stores during the yule shopping season.

Representatives of the Merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, through the advertising committee, yesterday entered into a contract with Clarence E. West to furnish and decorate the trees. The trees will be placed in the flag sockets at the curbing. They will be in position not later than December 15.

This will be the first time in history that the merchants have adopted this plan of advertising.

The merchants' division will start its Christmas shopping campaign immediately. Fares will be refunded to out-of-town shoppers every shopping day in December prior to Christmas by the fare refunding association.

STOCKHOLDERS OF FIRST NATIONAL AND CITIZENS WILL VOTE UPON PLAN

Consolidation of Two Institutions, Which Has Been Given O. K. of Comptroller of Currency, is Subject to Approval at Meeting Called for Monday, December 28, Officials Announce.

ARRANGEMENT WILL BE EFFECTED AS OF JAN. 5, UNDER FIRST BANK'S NAME.

Merging of Interests, Prompted by Fact That Citizens' Bank Has Outgrown Its Present Quarters, Will Give City $4,500,000 Institution Which Will be Housed in Fifth Street Home.

With the approval of the comptroller of the currency, arrangements are being made for a proposed merger of the First National and Citizens' National banks, it was announced today by officials of the two institutions.

The proposed consolidation, which is subject to the approval of the stockholders of both banks, will be voted upon at a stockholders' meeting on Monday, December 28.

The merger is to be effected as of January 5, 1926, and the business is to be conducted under the name and charter of the First National bank in the new home of that institution in Fifth street.

The combined interests of the two institutions will give East Liverpool a $4,500,000 bank.

Oldest and Largest Bank.

The Citizens' National bank found that it had outgrown its present banking home and decided that it was necessary either to build an entirely new banking building or remodel its present quarters, either of which projects involved a large expenditure of money, time and inconvenience to its patrons. The First National bank has a new bank building and modern equipment sufficient in every respect for the needs of both institutions.

The Directors, seeing the wisdom and advantage of a consolidation that would give Columbiana county one big banking institution without any addition construction expense, approved the plan.

The First National Bank, which was established in 1874, is not only the oldest but also the largest of East Liverpool's financial institutions. It has capital and surplus of $400,000, deposits of more than $2,800,00 and aggregate resources exceeding $3,500,000.

Citizens Founded in 1897

The Citizens' National, founded in 1897, has capital, surplus and profits of about $300,000, deposits of $700,000 and resources of more than $1,100,000.

Both institutions do a general banking business, handle individual checking accounts, pay four per cent interest on savings and supply safe deposit and foreign exchange service. Under authorization of the federal reserve board, the First National bank also maintains an active and growing trust department which is authorized and equipped to serve in all fiduciary capacities.

John J. Purinton is the president of the First National bank and John W. Vodrey is president of the Citizens' National bank.

RIVER ROAD BUS LOOP MAY BE DISCONTINUED; UPPER ST. GEORGE STREET TERMINUS IS PROPOSED

The River Road bus will discontinue the Virginia avenue, Pennsylvania avenue, Mulberry street loop and will establish its East End terminus at the upper end of St. George street, under the terms of an ordinance, which Solicitor Harry Brokaw, was instructed to prepare by the municipal legislature body last night.

The change in the route, which has the approval of officials of The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company will give better transportation facilities to all residents east of Mulberry street and south of the Pennsylvania railroad, council pointed out.

The plan will eliminate the Mulberry street railroad crossing. The bus, after leaving the River road, will travel along St. George street to the old McLean Tire company's plant, where it will turn and follow the same route back to the Diamond.

Few Passengers Transfer.

Councilman Kerr said that but few passengers transfer from the main line car to the River road but at the Mulberry street junction. Most of the passengers, he declared, board the bus along St. George street. The change would also benefit many workers at the Laughlin pottery and serve to relieve congestion on the main line, it is pointed out.

Solon Hayes declared that the traction company opposed the plan of crossing the tracks at Virginia avenue because a state law prohibited bus crossings where no watchmen were employed. The traction company representatives, however, expressed a willingness to eliminate the Mulberry street section entirely, operating to the east end of St. George street instead.

Councilman Chambers, after the discussion, offered a motion that the solicitor be instructed to prepare an ordinance calling for a change in the street car company's franchise with regard to the bus route. The motion was succeeded by Councilman Kerr and passed, with members voting favorably. The legislation probably will be enacted at the next meeting.

Police Equipment Issue.

Debate followed Councilman Fred Eardley's introduction of an ordinance authorizing the safety director to purchase "caps and equipment, such as guns and maces for members of the police department."

Councilman Farrall inquired whether it was customary for the city to purchase caps for the police Eardley replied that it was the custom, but explained that the state examiner had notified the city auditor tha legislation providing for his expendiure must be enacted in the future. He said that the city purchased caps, coats and boots for firemen and that it was no more than fair to furnish them for the police.

"I am opposed to buying clothing for the police," said Farrall. "Our officers are getting a fair salary and should buy their own clothing. Some one is trying to push this thing over because they are going out of office, but I am here to safeguard the rights of the people until my term expires."

"I am not trying to push anything across but am merely following the suggestions of the state examiner," replied Eardley. "It always has been customary to furnish the police with caps and equipment."

Vote on Ordinance 5 to 2.

Upon first reading Kerr and Farrall voted "no," on the ordinance, while Hayes, Chambers, Larcombe, Rowe and Eardley announced "yes." The ordinance lacked the necessary three-fourths majority to suspend the rules in order to place it on second reading when Kerr and Farrall stood pat.

Kerr offered a motion that a committee be named to investigate Eardley's claim that the city has been purchasing caps for both firemen and policemen.

"If this is customary, all well and

THE HIGHWAY TO LIFE

millions now living will never die

Not in any past ages was the Highway to Life opened up; for in all past ages men have continued to die.

The Highway to Life means what the words imply; namely, a way by which the people can get eternal life here, now.

The casting up of this highway and the gathering out of its stones is in progress before our eyes.

The way of the people, a way they have never hitherto had, is being made ready for them—the way by which they will gain everlasting life on earth.

THE HIGHWAY TO LIFE

millions now living will never die

Not in any past ages was the Highway to Life opened up; for in all past ages men have continued to die.

The Highway to Life means what the words imply; namely, a way by which the people can get eternal life here, now.

The casting up of this highway and the gathering out of its stones is in progress before our eyes.

The way of the people, a way they have never hitherto had, is being made ready for them—the way by which they will gain everlasting life on earth.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1925.

Shop Early, Mail Early

Gift-buying and mailing for the Christmas season is under way in the East Liverpool district today, with merchants and Postmaster J. E. McClure joining in the appeal to the public to "do it early."

With Yuletide stocks on shelves and counters as well as in display cases awating visits of patrons, all stores are prepared for the holiday business. And if customers have benefited from the experience of bygone years, they will not defer the task of fulfilling their Christmas needs.

Likewise, disappointments due to delays that are inevitable if mailing of presents is put off until a few days before the Yule day will be avoided if Postmaster General New's advice is heeded.

There will be no deliveries of ordinary mail on Christmas in East Liverpool or any other city in the United States, the postoffice department has announced. All postal operations, excepting the important dispatching departments, will be officially suspended on the holiday, thus permitting postal employes to eat Christmas dinner with their families.

And, too, clerks in stores will get more enjoyment out of Christmas if they are not overworked by a last-minute rush on the part of patrons. They, too, urge early shopping.

Remember merchants and their employes and postal workers are human. If this thought is uppermost in the mind of the people, they will co-operate in the "Shop Early" and "Mail Early" campaigns during the next 23 shopping days.

Civilized Hunting

The expense of a hunting trip nowadays is almost invariably more than the worth of the game bagged. The average hunter, moreover, is a poor shot. He is a poor woodsman in general. Often he doesn't even know how to start a fire or cook his game, when he runs out of other food.

He has few qualifications of the hunter. Yet he hunts. He races forth eagerly, jubilantly, just the same, years after year, forgetting how often he has dragged himself home hungry, disappointed and totally worn out after such a spree with nature.

The instinct he yields to comes from the time when man had to kill wild things or starve. The instinct survives, but not the knowledge. Skill is lacking, but is partly made up by double-barreled shot guns. Often the hunter shoots himself or some other hunter.

He is lured into the game, too, by the urge to prove to himself and others he is not decadent, that he is able, as his distant ancestors were, to go forth into the open and wrest a living from the wild. Instinct and egotism—and an undercurrent of doubt that he wants to dispel!

So he goes out and probably kills a few pitiful creatures that were better left alive, and somes back with the usual hunter's and fisherman's luck, only to start all over again the next season, instead of practicing at a mark in the back yard and buying his meat at the butcher shop.

Smoking College Girls

Many are shocked to learn that Bryn Mawr college, in Pennsylvania, is going to provide smoking rooms for its girl students.

Always heretofore that college has opposed the use of tobacco. Now the head of the institution says it recognizes that a change has come about in the social attitude toward smoking women, and the college is obliged to recognize it.

Such action is not regarded as approval of this practice, but as making the best of the situation. An inquiry reveals the fact that more than half of the girls at Bryn Mawr smoke already. The college authorities believe it is better to have them smoking frankly and openly than furtively in their own rooms.

That is probably true. It may be true, too, that there will be less use of cigarets when they are not forbidden than when they are. Men have no success in trying to monopolize tobacco. The appeal may weaken when there is no more adventure in it. And if tobacco is more harmful to women than to men, as physicians say, perhaps the women will find it out for themselves sooner or later, and act accordingly.

The Comfortable Kaiser

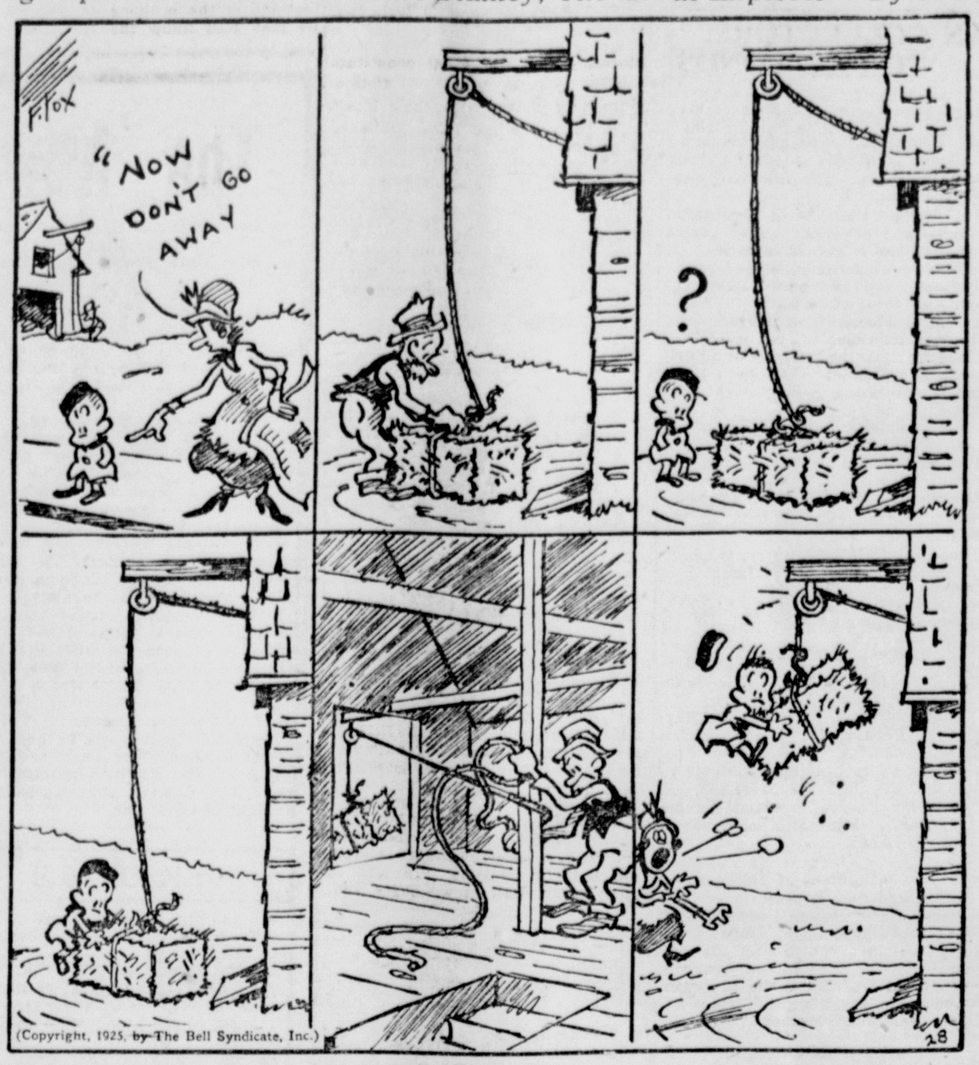
Kaiser Wilhelm emerges in a new role. He is by way of being one of the richest men in Europe.

The German government has been engaged in business negotiations with him for some time, regarding the disposition of the imperial estates seized when Wilhelm, asserting that he would remain faithful to the death to his loyal supporters, hopped aboard a special train and beat it for Holland.

There were 80 castles in the Hohenzollern collection of real estate, with vast lands and forests and large business investments, not to mention the family jewels and other personal possessions. The Hohenzollern family had not been kinging and empering 600 years for nothing. Much of the sequestered property is now returned or paid for. Wilhelm is allowed only six castles, but he may be able to worry along with them. There will be nearly 200,000 acres, too, and money payments amounting to more than $7,000,000.

Most people will say that republican Germany has been generous. But it's worth more than that to keep Wilhelm out of Germany and off the throne.

High Spots In The Life of Little Stanley, The Great Explorer— By F. Fox



NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The population of a large city moves in and out of New York daily. Some estimate the floating population at 200,000 daily, which, of course, does not include regular commuters. No hotel system has been devised to handle this enormous transient population perfectly.

They merely do the best they can, and the wonder is they do so well. The chief difficulty, of course, is telephone calls. Transients do 80 per cent of their business over the phone. I have had calls put through to new arrivals 10 minutes after they registered.

And I spent an entire day getting a man who was in his apartment and had lived at the big hotel four years. Resident guests in big hotels rarely know anyone but key clerks if they spend a lifetime in the hostelry.

They tell of a man dropping in to see a friend and shaking his hand sadly. "Good-bye," he said, "I shall never see you again." Then he explained he was moving into the same hotel that day. In one apartment house hotel on Park avenue it develops that not a single guest is acquainted with another.

The old trick of the headwaiter greeting you by name at your first meal is impossible, save in very small hotels. It was a bit of trickery, but excusable. The old Fifth avenue had a bright young man who stood near the register. He could remember names and faces.

He later stood near the dining room entrance and as the diners came along he whispered their names to the maitre d'hotel and so he greeted them—thus producing a pleasurable thrill that meant lasting patronage. Other hotels used variants of this scheme.

One of the largest hotels has 36 operators at the switchboard during the day and 21 after midnight. They receive alphabetical lists of new arrivals as soon as the cashier, but sometimes with hundreds arriving and departing hourly confusion cannot be avoided.

A half million people a day are weighed on penny scales of New York. The scales are everywhere—theater lobbies, chain drug stores, washrooms and lunchrooms. Most of them furnish cards with date and weight on one side and fortune on the other. There is the yarn of a criminal's fortune reading: "Be careful. You are closely watched." He went around to headquarters and gave himself up.

Weight is closely associated with health—hence the popularity of weighing. Yet one is baffled. The biggest man in town—Big Bill Edwards—is always healthy, and Bide Dudley, the critic, weighing around 100 pounds, has never been sick in his life. Midgets are rarely ill.

Marcus Loew has a shooting gallery in the basement of his pondeous castle on his estate near Glen Cove. It is a throw-back to early days. He began his career operating a shooting gallery.

Sinclair Lewis was talking of a certain magazine, very stilted and highbrow, which now and then tries to curl up its toes. "But," says Lewis, "it always finds the slab too cold and tries to circulate again."

In other days a testimonial dinner was well attended, but not any more. The most recent effort resulted in 17 acceptances out of 800 invitations. The man in whose honor it was to be given was rushed from a liner to the dining room. He took one look inside and fled. The biggest testimonial dinner ever given in New York was to Irvin Cobb at the Waldorf in 1912. More than 3,000 attended.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Civilian Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—While every one is familiar with the work which has been done, and is still being done toward the rehabilitation of those disabled during the war, there are no doubt a great many who do not know so much about the rehabilitation of civilians.

It has been estimated that each year 180,000 persons suffer permanent physical disabilities as the result of public and industrial accidents. In addition to these there are those who are disabled from disease or congenital conditions. While not all of these suffer vocational handicaps it is believed that about 50 per cent are vocationally handicapped.

In 1920 an act of congress known as the Industrial rehabilitation act was passed. This was later amended and is now known as the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act. Under this law the Federal Board for Vocational Education is charged with "the responsibility of promoting in the nation the vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry or otherwise."

Under the act, the federal government agrees to enter into a partnership with the states in the work of rehabilitating civilians with vocational handicaps. For this purpose congress annually appropriates a million dollars which is to be distributed among the states upon a basis of population. The states in turn match each dollar of federal money with a dollar of theirs, and these matched funds are expanded dollar for dollar in the work.

The money appropriated for this work may be used for administrative expenditures, for costs of tuition for disabled persons in training, and for instructional supplies. Under certain conditions it may also be used for the purchase of artificial appliances and for the cost of physical examination.

Most States Cooperate.

At the present time there are 39 states cooperating with the federal government in this work. It is easily realized what an important thing this work of rehabilitating the vocationally handicapped is. It means that such a person instead of becoming a permanent charge on the state is within a comparatively short time self-supporting.

An instance of this is shown in the story of a man from one of the states in the middle west. This man had been in the florist business all his life and finally had become the proprietor of a prosperous shop. Suddenly he was stricken with rheumatism. He was hopelessly crippled. He spent all his savings and finally the business went—all in a fruitless effort to regain his health. Eventually everything he had was gone and as he had no family and no one upon whom he could call for assistance he was taken to the county almshouse.

This man was only 35 years of age and his general health was good. It was reasonable to suppose that he would probably live at least 30 years more. It was estimated that it cost the county six dollars a week to keep him. The State Board of Vocational Education upon learning of his case put a proposition up to the county authorities.

It suggested that if the county authorities would pay the man's subsistence for two years, it would pay for his vocational training. At the end of that time the state board would guarantee to take the man off the county's hands. Realizing that this was a sound business proposition, the county officials agreed. The man, whose hands and eyesight were unimpaired, was given a course in watchmaking and repairing and at the end of a year he was making $15 a week, out of which he was saving $2. His employers said that at the end of the following year he would probably be on a $30 a week basis.

Employers Prejudiced.

Before the passage of the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act many states had workmen's compensation acts and some had bureaus which undertook to place the vocationally handicapped. There were also philanthropic individuals and societies which undertook the vocational education of these, but there was no state responsibility for this work. Also there was in many cases considerable prejudice on the part of employers against the employment of cripples. A man who depended upon manual labor for a living was apt to be decidedly out of luck if through an accident he lost an arm or a hand.

In the vocational rehabilitation of men and women who have been incapacitated through accident or disease a special study is made of the individual. What might be the proper training for one man who had lost an arm would be useless to another with the same handicap. In order that a person may be restored to maximum usefulness it is necessary that the restoration be accomplished on the basis of what he has left, nor what he has lost. Consequently a study must be made of his educational attainments and an analysis of his working experiences. Also his mental qualities, traits, ambitions, resourcefulness, ingenuity and adaptability to new conditions must be taken into account.

One of the chief objects of the rehabilitation service is to see that the disabled person is given the opportunity of obtaining employment in which his physical disability will not appear as a handicap. Therefore very careful consideration is given to the selection of a new line of work. It has been said that in many cases men who have been vocationally rehabilitated have found their new work more remunerative than that which they were doing prior to their injury.

A man who was a lay-out man in a boiler shop lost a leg as the result of an accident, and thus became incapacitated for his job. He had always been interested in dental mechanics so was given a course of training in this. He now operates his own laboratory and is an assistant instructor in this vocation at a state university.

A young woman who had been left with a seriously crippled leg and hip as the result of infantile paralysis was discovered by the rehabilitation service to have an unusual artistic talent and she was accordingly given a course in commercial art. The service discovered a young man with one arm at the uninspiring task of splitting kindling wood. He was given an opportunity to take a commercial course and proved so apt that he is now private secretary to the manager of a large discount company.

Cases are brought to the attention of the rehabilitation service through several mediums. Industrial accidents are reported automatically and public accidents may be reported through hospitals, welfare organizations or social workers. Congenital cases are usually reported through the schools after the children become of employable age. The training may be given in an institution, in a shop, by correspondence, through a tutor, in an established school or by a combination of these.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1925.

Shop Early, Mail Early

Gift-buying and mailing for the Christmas season is under way in the East Liverpool district today, with merchants and Postmaster J. E. McClure joining in the appeal to the public to "do it early."

With Yuletide stocks on shelves and counters as well as in display cases awating visits of patrons, all stores are prepared for the holiday business. And if customers have benefited from the experience of bygone years, they will not defer the task of fulfilling their Christmas needs.

Likewise, disappointments due to delays that are inevitable if mailing of presents is put off until a few days before the Yule day will be avoided if Postmaster General New's advice is heeded.

There will be no deliveries of ordinary mail on Christmas in East Liverpool or any other city in the United States, the postoffice department has announced. All postal operations, excepting the important dispatching departments, will be officially suspended on the holiday, thus permitting postal employes to eat Christmas dinner with their families.

And, too, clerks in stores will get more enjoyment out of Christmas if they are not overworked by a last-minute rush on the part of patrons. They, too, urge early shopping.

Remember merchants and their employes and postal workers are human. If this thought is uppermost in the mind of the people, they will co-operate in the "Shop Early" and "Mail Early" campaigns during the next 23 shopping days.

Civilized Hunting

The expense of a hunting trip nowadays is almost invariably more than the worth of the game bagged. The average hunter, moreover, is a poor shot. He is a poor woodsman in general. Often he doesn't even know how to start a fire or cook his game, when he runs out of other food.

He has few qualifications of the hunter. Yet he hunts. He races forth eagerly, jubilantly, just the same, years after year, forgetting how often he has dragged himself home hungry, disappointed and totally worn out after such a spree with nature.

The instinct he yields to comes from the time when man had to kill wild things or starve. The instinct survives, but not the knowledge. Skill is lacking, but is partly made up by double-barreled shot guns. Often the hunter shoots himself or some other hunter.

He is lured into the game, too, by the urge to prove to himself and others he is not decadent, that he is able, as his distant ancestors were, to go forth into the open and wrest a living from the wild. Instinct and egotism—and an undercurrent of doubt that he wants to dispel!

So he goes out and probably kills a few pitiful creatures that were better left alive, and somes back with the usual hunter's and fisherman's luck, only to start all over again the next season, instead of practicing at a mark in the back yard and buying his meat at the butcher shop.

Smoking College Girls

Many are shocked to learn that Bryn Mawr college, in Pennsylvania, is going to provide smoking rooms for its girl students.

Always heretofore that college has opposed the use of tobacco. Now the head of the institution says it recognizes that a change has come about in the social attitude toward smoking women, and the college is obliged to recognize it.

Such action is not regarded as approval of this practice, but as making the best of the situation. An inquiry reveals the fact that more than half of the girls at Bryn Mawr smoke already. The college authorities believe it is better to have them smoking frankly and openly than furtively in their own rooms.

That is probably true. It may be true, too, that there will be less use of cigarets when they are not forbidden than when they are. Men have no success in trying to monopolize tobacco. The appeal may weaken when there is no more adventure in it. And if tobacco is more harmful to women than to men, as physicians say, perhaps the women will find it out for themselves sooner or later, and act accordingly.

The Comfortable Kaiser

Kaiser Wilhelm emerges in a new role. He is by way of being one of the richest men in Europe.

The German government has been engaged in business negotiations with him for some time, regarding the disposition of the imperial estates seized when Wilhelm, asserting that he would remain faithful to the death to his loyal supporters, hopped aboard a special train and beat it for Holland.

There were 80 castles in the Hohenzollern collection of real estate, with vast lands and forests and large business investments, not to mention the family jewels and other personal possessions. The Hohenzollern family had not been kinging and empering 600 years for nothing. Much of the sequestered property is now returned or paid for. Wilhelm is allowed only six castles, but he may be able to worry along with them. There will be nearly 200,000 acres, too, and money payments amounting to more than $7,000,000.

Most people will say that republican Germany has been generous. But it's worth more than that to keep Wilhelm out of Germany and off the throne.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The population of a large city moves in and out of New York daily. Some estimate the floating population at 200,000 daily, which, of course, does not include regular commuters. No hotel system has been devised to handle this enormous transient population perfectly.

They merely do the best they can, and the wonder is they do so well. The chief difficulty, of course, is telephone calls. Transients do 80 per cent of their business over the phone. I have had calls put through to new arrivals 10 minutes after they registered.

And I spent an entire day getting a man who was in his apartment and had lived at the big hotel four years. Resident guests in big hotels rarely know anyone but key clerks if they spend a lifetime in the hostelry.

They tell of a man dropping in to see a friend and shaking his hand sadly. "Good-bye," he said, "I shall never see you again." Then he explained he was moving into the same hotel that day. In one apartment house hotel on Park avenue it develops that not a single guest is acquainted with another.

The old trick of the headwaiter greeting you by name at your first meal is impossible, save in very small hotels. It was a bit of trickery, but excusable. The old Fifth avenue had a bright young man who stood near the register. He could remember names and faces.

He later stood near the dining room entrance and as the diners came along he whispered their names to the maitre d'hotel and so he greeted them—thus producing a pleasurable thrill that meant lasting patronage. Other hotels used variants of this scheme.

One of the largest hotels has 36 operators at the switchboard during the day and 21 after midnight. They receive alphabetical lists of new arrivals as soon as the cashier, but sometimes with hundreds arriving and departing hourly confusion cannot be avoided.

A half million people a day are weighed on penny scales of New York. The scales are everywhere—theater lobbies, chain drug stores, washrooms and lunchrooms. Most of them furnish cards with date and weight on one side and fortune on the other. There is the yarn of a criminal's fortune reading: "Be careful. You are closely watched." He went around to headquarters and gave himself up.

Weight is closely associated with health—hence the popularity of weighing. Yet one is baffled. The biggest man in town—Big Bill Edwards—is always healthy, and Bide Dudley, the critic, weighing around 100 pounds, has never been sick in his life. Midgets are rarely ill.

Marcus Loew has a shooting gallery in the basement of his pondeous castle on his estate near Glen Cove. It is a throw-back to early days. He began his career operating a shooting gallery.

Sinclair Lewis was talking of a certain magazine, very stilted and highbrow, which now and then tries to curl up its toes. "But," says Lewis, "it always finds the slab too cold and tries to circulate again."

In other days a testimonial dinner was well attended, but not any more. The most recent effort resulted in 17 acceptances out of 800 invitations. The man in whose honor it was to be given was rushed from a liner to the dining room. He took one look inside and fled. The biggest testimonial dinner ever given in New York was to Irvin Cobb at the Waldorf in 1912. More than 3,000 attended.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Civilian Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—While every one is familiar with the work which has been done, and is still being done toward the rehabilitation of those disabled during the war, there are no doubt a great many who do not know so much about the rehabilitation of civilians.

It has been estimated that each year 180,000 persons suffer permanent physical disabilities as the result of public and industrial accidents. In addition to these there are those who are disabled from disease or congenital conditions. While not all of these suffer vocational handicaps it is believed that about 50 per cent are vocationally handicapped.

In 1920 an act of congress known as the industrial rehabilitation act was passed. This was later amended and is now known as the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act. Under this law the Federal Board for Vocational Education is charged with "the responsibility of promoting in the nation the vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry or otherwise."

Under the act, the federal government agrees to enter into a partnership with the states in the work of rehabilitating civilians with vocational handicaps. For this purpose congress annually appropriates a million dollars which is to be distributed among the states upon a basis of population. The states in turn match each dollar of federal money with a dollar of theirs, and these matched funds are expanded dollar for dollar in the work.

The money appropriated for this work may be used for administrative expenditures, for costs of tuition for disabled persons in training, and for instructional supplies. Under certain conditions it may also be used for the purchase of artificial appliances and for the cost of physical examination.

Most States Cooperate.

At the present time there are 39 states cooperating with the federal government in this work. It is easily realized what an important thing this work of rehabilitating the vocationally handicapped is. It means that such a person instead of becoming a permanent charge on the state is within a comparatively short time self-supporting.

An instance of this is shown in the story of a man from one of the states in the middle west. This man had been in the florist business all his life and finally had become the proprietor of a prosperous shop. Suddenly he was stricken with rheumatism. He was hopelessly crippled. He spent all his savings and finally the business went—all in a fruitless effort to regain his health. Eventually everything he had was gone and as he had no family and no one upon whom he could call for assistance he was taken to the county almshouse.

This man was only 35 years of age and his general health was good. It was reasonable to suppose that he would probably live at least 30 years more. It was estimated that it cost the county six dollars a week to keep him. The State Board of Vocational Education upon learning of his case put a proposition up to the county authorities.

It suggested that if the county authorities would pay the man's subsistence for two years, it would pay for his vocational training. At the end of that time the state board would guarantee to take the man off the county's hands. Realizing that this was a sound business proposition, the county officials agreed. The man, whose hands and eyesight were unimpaired, was given a course in watchmaking and repairing and at the end of a year he was making $15 a week, out of which he was saving $2. His employers said that at the end of the following year he would probably be on a $30 a week basis.

Employers Prejudiced.

Before the passage of the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation act many states had workmen's compensation acts and some had bureaus which undertook to place the vocationally handicapped. There were also philanthropic individuals and societies which undertook the vocational education of these, but there was no state responsibility for this work. Also there was in many cases considerable prejudice on the part of employers against the employment of cripples. A man who depended upon manual labor for a living was apt to be decidedly out of luck if through an accident he lost an arm or a hand.

In the vocational rehabilitation of men and women who have been incapacitated through accident or disease a special study is made of the individual. What might be the proper training for one man who had lost an arm would be useless to another with the same handicap. In order that a person may be restored to maximum usefulness it is necessary that the restoration be accomplished on the basis of what he has left, nor what he has lost. Consequently a study must be made of his educational attainments and an analysis of his working experiences. Also his mental qualities, traits, ambitions, resourcefulness, ingenuity and adaptability to new conditions must be taken into account.

One of the chief objects of the rehabilitation service is to see that the disabled person is given the opportunity of obtaining employment in which his physical disability will not appear as a handicap. Therefore very careful consideration is given to the selection of a new line of work. It has been said that in many cases men who have been vocationally rehabilitated have found their new work more remunerative than that which they were doing prior to their injury.

A man who was a lay-out man in a boiler shop lost a leg as the result of an accident, and thus became incapacitated for his job. He had always been interested in dental mechanics so was given a course of training in this. He now operates his own laboratory and is an assistant instructor in this vocation at a state university.

A young woman who had been left with a seriously crippled leg and hip as the result of infantile paralysis was discovered by the rehabilitation service to have an unusual artistic talent and she was accordingly given a course in commercial art. The service discovered a young man with one arm at the uninspiring task of splitting kindling wood. He was given an opportunity to take a commercial course and proved so apt that he is now private secretary to the manager of a large discount company.

Cases are brought to the attention of the rehabilitation service through several mediums. Industrial accidents are reported automatically and public accidents may be reported through hospitals, welfare organizations or social workers. Congenital cases are usually reported through the schools after the children become of employable age. The training may be given in an institution, in a shop, by correspondence, through a tutor, in an established school or by a combination of these.

NO DATE FOR ROAD OPENING

County Won't Take Chance on Damaging Concrete.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has not detremined upon a date for the opening of the Wellsville-Salineville road, and over the recently improved section in Yellow Creek township.

"There is no use rushing matters and thereby causing damage to the new concrete," Mr. Kirk declared today. "It is not the intent of the state highway department to keep the road closed in Yellow Creek township longer than possible, but at the same time the department wants to protect the improvement.

"We know how anxious the people want this road opened and I can say that it will not be kept closed any longer than is absolutely necessary."

It may follow that the road will be opened for through traffic by the end of another week.

TAX COLLECTORS TO FILE BONDS

All persons elected at the November election to fill the office of tax collector in any borough or township of Beaver county, are required under law to file a preliminary bond with the clerk of courts, Jacob B. Marshall, before Dec. 1. Mr. Marshall stated that there are more who have not filed their bonds than those who have filed.

Failure to file a tax collector's bond by December 1 may result in the loss of office to the person elected. Four years ago there were two persons who were regularly elected, yet were restrained from taking the oath of office due to the fact that they were protested for failure to comply with the law.

COURT REVERSES WATKINS RULING

The late Mayor James S. Barnes of Wellsville was reversed by Judge James G. Moore in the decision handed down by the lower court in the case of Albert Watkins, charged with a violation of the liquor laws.

This case was carried to common pleas court on error, Attorney W. A. O'Grady representing the defendant in the lower court, and the plaintiff in error in the court above, and in which the state of Ohio was named as the defendant in error.

The decree of the court read that the judgment of the mayor's court is reversed on the grounds that the judgment is against the weight of the evidence and not supported by sufficient evidence.

The action was then dismissed at the costs of the defendant in error, and judgment for the costs of the plaintiff in error against the defendant in error has been rendered.

"The Scarlet West" Is Photoplay at American Theatre

Stories of the Old West constitute the most popular form of fiction. Hundreds of books, with their locale laid in that section, are published yearly; scores of magazines print Western stories exclusively, and even the "high brow" publications use them frequently.

That is one of the reasons for the unprecedented popularity of "The Scarlet West," a First National picture which is coming Monday to the American theatre. Wherever it has been shown it has been acclaimed one of the outstanding motion pictures of the year.

"The Scarlet West" exudes that romantic spirit which has given the West such a powerful hold on the affections of the millions. It was made by men who know the West, and it was produced in one of the beauty spots of the continent—southwestern Colorado.

NO DATE FOR ROAD OPENING

County Won't Take Chance on Damaging Concrete.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has not detremined upon a date for the opening of the Wellsville-Salineville road, and over the recently improved section in Yellow Creek township.

"There is no use rushing matters and thereby causing damage to the new concrete," Mr. Kirk declared today. "It is not the intent of the state highway department to keep the road closed in Yellow Creek township longer than possible, but at the same time the department wants to protect the improvement.

"We know how anxious the people want this road opened and I can say that it will not be kept closed any longer than is absolutely necessary."

It may follow that the road will be opened for through traffic by the end of another week.

TAX COLLECTORS TO FILE BONDS

All persons elected at the November election to fill the office of tax collector in any borough or township of Beaver county, are required under law to file a preliminary bond with the clerk of courts, Jacob B. Marshall, before Dec. 1. Mr. Marshall stated that there are more who have not filed their bonds than those who have filed.

Failure to file a tax collector's bond by December 1 may result in the loss of office to the person elected. Four years ago there were two persons who were regularly elected, yet were restrained from taking the oath of office due to the fact that they were protested for failure to comply with the law.

COURT REVERSES WATKINS RULING

The late Mayor James S. Barnes of Wellsville was reversed by Judge James G. Moore in the decision handed down by the lower court in the case of Albert Watkins, charged with a violation of the liquor laws.

This case was carried to common pleas court on error, Attorney W. A. O'Grady representing the defendant in the lower court, and the plaintiff in error in the court above, and in which the state of Ohio was named as the defendant in error.

The decree of the court read that the judgment of the mayor's court is reversed on the grounds that the judgment is against the weight of the evidence and not supported by sufficient evidence.

The action was then dismissed at the costs of the defendant in error, and judgment for the costs of the plaintiff in error against the defendant in error has been rendered.

"The Scarlet West" Is Photoplay at American Theatre

Stories of the Old West constitute the most popular form of fiction. Hundreds of books, with their locale laid in that section, are published yearly; scores of magazines print Western stories exclusively, and even the "high brow" publications use them frequently.

That is one of the reasons for the unprecedented popularity of "The Scarlet West," a First National picture which is coming Monday to the American theatre. Wherever it has been shown it has been acclaimed one of the outstanding motion pictures of the year.

"The Scarlet West" exudes that romantic spirit which has given the West such a powerful hold on the affections of the millions. It was made by men who know the West, and it was produced in one of the beauty spots of the continent—southwestern Colorado.

DRUG STORES SELLING RUM GET ONCE-ONCE

Prohibition Chiefs Investigate Permits for Whisky.

HIT HOME BREW

Plan to Cut Down Number of Nation's Dispensaries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Having revoked thousands of permits for wine making and home-brewing, the prohibition regime today started an exhaustive survey and investigation into the permits now held by drug stores and other concerns for the "legal" sale of whisky.

The primary object of the investigation is to cut down the number of dispensaries. There are more than 40,000 pharmacies alone that have permits to sell liquor on a physicians' prescription, and their conduct is to be subjected to searching scrutiny from federal investigators. It was said at the treasury that many licenses probably will be revoked, as well as the permits of many physicians to prescribe liquor.

Druggists have a full right to fill any prescription for liquor or drugs signed by reputable physicians, without investigation as to whether or not these goods are to be used legally, according to a decision by Attorney General Sargent.

Agreements With Bootleggers.

According to information at the treasury many drug stores, principally in the large cities, have a working agreement with bootleggers. Thousands of gallons of alcohol are believed to be reaching the bootleg market through this channel. Bonded liquors obtained from druggists are at least tripled in volume by the addition of water or other adulterants for sale to the retail trade.

A new permit system for druggists is under consideration by Gen. L. C. Andrews. They may be required to make monthly reports to prohibition administrators as to the amount of intoxicants purchased and to whom these liquors are disposed.

Officials said that if this regulation is adopted the government will have taken a big step in keeping a check on the movements of liquor. Prohibition administrators would be requested to investigate all suspicious sales.

Gen. Andrews already has concentrated a force of investigators and legal experts in a study of the 80 distilleries and 150 denaturing plants which hold federal licenses.

Gov "Ma" Ferguson Silent on Demand For Assembly Meet

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 28. — With James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, having spoken for the governor to the effect that no decision has been made toward calling a special session of the Texas legislature, and virtually admitting to newspaper men last night that he, not "Ma," was "the governor of Texas," conditions dropped back to normalcy today to await the announcement, if any is to be made, from the executive mansion of the woman governor's intentions.

A report of the Travis county (Austin) grand jury which is known to have investigated highway affairs, was also awaited today. Today was the last day a return could be made, it being the last day of the fall term of court.

Mrs. Ferguson maintained silence.

Ohio Champ Corn Producer.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—Ira Marshall, Dola, Hardin county, today is the world's champion corn producers, according to officials of the agricultural extension department, Ohio State university. Marshall, a farmer, is credited with producing 1,600.1 bushels of corn on 10 acres, or 25.7 bushels per acre more than the world's records, made by W. H. Gilmore, Licking county, three years ago.

Gerald Farrar Under Specialist's Care.

fact that French socialism is educated and intelligent.

Jaures, murdered when the war began—for talking common sense—was one of the ablest men in France, or anywhere else. And one of the best and most sincere men.

A thousand French socialists are better equipped, mentally, and better balanced, than any 10 public men you could name in the United States.

Over there, they must think and study to win their public importance. It is not handed to them by political or financial bosses.

Nothing comes suddenly. It took a long time and several revolutions for the humble bourgeoise to take power from kings, nobles and clergy, thus increasing a thousand fold the number of those with a share in life's good things. And the merchants, the "money men," did not gain power except as they learned how to use it.

The next step along the path of democracy will be another increase in the number of earth's children that share its property. That step will be taken when the great crowd learns how to rule itself, and finds competent leaders that won't betray it.

An important sight was the brief power of Macdonald in Britain. But such things come slowly, they help everybody and need not hurt anybody when they do happen.

If our men of power have any intelligence, the change here will come a long time hence, and as peacefully as an election in a golf club. The trouble is that our "big" men take themselves too seriously, attaching to their bank balances more importance than to historical precedent, and the rights of others.

An intelligent young New York girl, whose life-long environment has been a mixture of genuine capital, and what capital calls "society," rebels in print. She says formal balls are so stupid, the "unalluring stag lines" (meaning the rows of young society gentlemen all dressed up) are so deadly dull, that young ladies of this period are driven to the cabarets for intellectual aspiration.

In heaven where he dwells, if the Homestead killings did not send him somewhere else, old Carnegie must wonder. He built and gave away 1,000 or more libraries, thinking that he was supplying the needs of discontented, ambitious youth.

He should have endowed cabarets, with Ziegfeld, Berlin and Dillingham on the board of directors.

MASTER BANDIT FIGHTS PARDON

Gerald Chapman Will Face U. S. Judge on Monday.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 28.—Gerald Chapman, lodged in the death house at the state prison in Wethersfield, was in consultation today with his attorneys who are directing their efforts to aid him avoiding the gallows on March 3, next. Chapman will face Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas in the board of pardons room at the state prison next Monday morning and in person say why he should be returned to Atlanta to serve out his 25-year term for mail robbery.

President Coolidge has freed Chapman from the Atlanta term so that Connecticut may deal with him for murder. The president's action, Chapman will contend, was a misuse of executive power, and on that proposition Chapman will fight his case into the supreme court of the United States. So his counsel have declared publicly.

In order that there may be sufficient time for Chapman to test his theory Governor Trumbull has reprieved the bandit for three months.

Rabbit Hunters Blamed for Wounding Of Calf in Field

Rabbit hunters are blamed for the wounding of an 18-month old calf, belonging to R. L. Thompson, residing on the Country club road, about two miles north of here, early last night.

The calf was in a pasture field, when Mr. Thompson and neighbors were attracted by a shot evidently fired by one of a party of hunters. Later in the evening the calf was found with a bullet wound in its shoulder. It may be necessary to kill the animal.

A search was made for the hunters but they had fled from the farm. Members of the Thompson family said the shooting was to be reported to Sheriff George Wright.

WAGGONER WINS WAR CRY PRIZE

Salvation Army Envoy Awarded $25 for Yuletide Story.

C. Walter Waggoner, a Salvation Army envoy, and a former resident of this city, is the winner of a cash prize of $25, offered by "The War Cry," official Salvation Army organ, for the best Christmas story, which will appear in the Christmas edition of the publication.

The story, written by Mr. Waggoner and which was chosen from hundreds of contributions, deals with the Christmas activities of the organization among the poor children. It is entitled, "Joey's Christmas Prayer."

Mr. Waggoner, who is a brother of Mrs. Byron H. Ingersoll of Chester avenue, is a native of East Liverpool, having spent the greater part of his life here. He received his early training in Salvation Army work with the local corps.

He is a noted song writer and composer, having been a member of the local Salvation Army band for several years. For many years he was the spiritual special for the eastern Ohio division of the Salvation Army. At the present time he is engaged in Salvation Army work in Boston and eastern Massachusetts.

The Yuletide number of the War Cry, which is just off the press but which will not be ready for distribution until the week preceding Christmas, consists of 24 pages. It has an art cover of four colors and also a pictorial supplement in rotragravure. This year's circulation of the Christmas number is expected to reach the 700,000 mark, as compared with 650,000 last season.

good," he said, "but if not, it would establish a precedent. I know the city has been purchasing the helmets worn by firemen while fighting blazes, but am of the opinion that each man buys his own dress cap."

There was no opposition to the proposed inquiry, and President Capehart named Farrall, Kerr and Eardley as members of this committee, instructing them to report before the next meeting, when the ordinance probably will be considered on second reading.

Traffic Ordinance Changes Urged.

Chief of Police McDermott asked council to amend the traffic ordinance, making Washington street from Fourth to Fifth street a two-way thoroughfare in order to ban left turns at the postoffice corner. He said that the Fifth street and Broadway corner was one of the most dangerous in the city, and that it would be safer for the pedestrians if left turns were prohibited. To re-establish two-way traffic on Washington street south of Fifth would permit vehicles to turn south on this street and not be forced to go all the way to Jackson street before making a turn.

The chief declared that parking on Washington street would be restricted in order to eliminate the congestion which Solon Larcombe pointed out. The solicitor was instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing this change in traffic regulations.

The proposed erection of a street car waiting station in the Diamond was suggested by Hayes, who said that the traction company officials had expressed a willingness to rent from the city such a building. The building would cost approximately $20,000, according to estimates. Owing to city's financial condition, the proposition failed to interest the solons.

"It's The Woman Who Pays"

ATHENS, O., Nov. 28. — The old wheeze is right, "it's the woman who pays." So said police here today.

Prohibition agents found 40 gallons of mash on a farm near Marshfield, and, unable to find Lewis Williams, a tenant farmer, they arrested Mrs. Williams as his proxy and held her under heavy bond on the theory Williams would surrender to get his wife out of jail.

Wellsburg, W. Va., Man Is Murdered in Bootleggers' Feud

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 28.—A murder, believed to have resulted from a bootleggers' feud, was discovered today with the finding of the mutilated body of Lawrence Deoenoes, also known as Charles Wicker, a miner. Steve Tokas, also a miner, found the body on his way to work. It was lying on a hill near Cross Creek, where the slain man lived in a shanty. Long, deep gashes, evidently inflicted with a hatchet, marked the face. The hands had been strapped together and another strap encircled Deoenoes' neck.

Authorities said the body probably had been dragged to the spot where it was found. Upon examining Doenoes' shanty, they found a small still and a quantity of moonshine liquor, they reported. Only recently the slain man had been in court on a liquor charge.

Panthers Increase Lead Over Wildcats In Y. M. C. A. Tourney

The Panthers today increased their lead over the Wildcats in the athletic tournament which is being conducted among members of the elementary division at the Y. M. C. A. The standing is: Panthers, 150; Wildcats, 122.

The event for elementaries was the running high jump. Richard Witherow of the Panthers took first place; A. Glen, Wildcats, second; John Strobel, Wildcats, third; J. Craig, Panthers, fourth, and P. Peddicord, Wildcats, fifth.

Approximately 70 youths are taking part in the tourney and each event is spirited. A Bible study class is conducted every Saturday.

Woman and Five Alleged Accomplices Held for Bombings

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Judge Thomas Lynch of the criminal court today held Mrs. Fred Schrock Rice and five alleged accomplices on bonds of $120,000 each for a total of $720,000 on charges that they had contributed to the bombings of four buildings.

The others held are: Joseph M. Sangerman, business man, labor union worker, Fred Wamquist, Joe Avanzio, Louis D'Andrea and Jack Davis.

They were held on four charges of malicious mischief each and four charges of damaging buildings with dynamite bombs each after State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe had told Judge Lynch he had evidence, including confessions, that they were involved in a wide-spread conspiracy to intimidate organizations and citizens with bombs.

California has 6,000,000 acres of irrigated land, producing annual crops worth $300,000,000.

BARTH GIVEN CENSUS PLACE

C. of C. Secretary Named Duty in Biennial Survey.

H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been commissioned a deputy by the United States Bureau of Census in the biennial census of manufacturers, covering the year 1925, which will be taken starting early in January.

According to an act of Congress, passed March 3, 1919, all manufacturers whose gross products are valued at $5,000 or more for the past year are required to make this report. Blank forms, on which these reports must be filed, are to be mailed during the latter part of the present month and are to be returned properly made out as early in January as possible.

Manufacturers who fail to obey the instructions are to be reported to Barth, who will immediately call their attention to the matter. These reports must be returned to the bureau of census not later than March 31, 1926.

Manufacturers are urged to have their records in such shape that there will be no unnecessary delay in the compilation of this report after the first of the year.

Census reports will be tabulated as soon as all returns are filed. Any delay in filing the reports will have a tendency to delay the complete tabulation.

Metropolitan Chain Store Opens Here On or About Dec. 15

The East Liverpool store of the Metropolitan Chain Stores, of New York, which will occupy quarters in the new Milligan building, Fifth street, will be open for business on or about December 15.

The Metropolitan Stores operate 75 establishments handling merchandise retailing from five cents to $1 and more.

Newell Auto Owner Fined $50 Here for Reckless Driving

J. J. Gitschner, Newell, was fined $50 and costs when arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown yesterday afternoon upon a charge of reckless driving.

He was arrested by Patrolman William Lister, upon an affidavit filed by James McDonald, claim agent for The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, shortly after his automobile is alleged to have collided with a Chester street car in Washington street near the Potter's Savings & Loan company building.

McDonald charged Gischner drove south on Washington street, a violation of the one-way street regulations, and was exceeding the speed limit at the time of the crash. The front end of his machine was badly damaged. No one was injured.

Mrs. Simeon D. Fess, Senator's Wife, Hurt In Auto Accident

Mrs. Simeon D. Fess, wife of the junior senator from Ohio, and mother of Lowell and Sumner Fess, formerly of this city, is in a Washington, D. C., hospital following an automobile accident near Uniontown yesterday.

The accident occurred when the senator and his wife, son, Lowell and the latter's wife and Mrs. Minnie Bozore of Columbus were enroute from Yellow Springs to Washington. Lowell Fess was at the wheel of the car when it skidded while descending Summit mountain, near Uniontown. The car turned around three and one-half times before it came to a stop. Had it not swerved to the opposite side of the road it would have dropped 100 feet into a ravine.

Mrs. Fess was brought to Washington by train. The other members of the party suffered nervous shocks.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

TEN.

The best friend of Noble Harwood in New York City was a man whose acquaintance he had made in business, Charley Buckmaster, president of the company which was the export agent of the National Axle and Bearing Co. He lived with a childless wife, a British woman he had married while a United States counsel in Brazil, in an apartment in Park Avenue, and lived up all of his $40,000 annual income in advance. Mrs. Buckmaster spent her private income of 800 pounds a year upon herself.

The Buckmasters gave the first of the affairs with which Laurel and Noble Harwood were complimented in New York. It was a rather hastily organized affair, with a private dining-room of the apartment house in which the Buckmasters lived as the locale.

The honeymooners had been in the city a week when this took place. They had a suite at the Savoyard, a smart and semi-private hotel in the Fifties, in which they spent a few hours a day. Afternoons were taken up moving about in a low, rakish Minerva town car of pleasing hue which Noble had chartered, together with a chauffeur, for the duration of their stay. They visited all the familiar sights of the city, and invariably joined the procession of motors on Riverside Drive in the late afternoon. Every evening, after dinner at Pierre's, Sherry's, L'Aiglon, Voisin or Elysee, there was a show, the Follies, the Music Box, the Theater Guild, a spectacle at the Century, Walter Hampden's current production, and, the night before the Buckmaster affair, a de luxe presentation of a new Douglas Fairbanks photoplay.

After the theater there was supper at a night club—The Russian Eagle, Texas Guinan's, Ciro's Mecca (before it was padlocked), Mirador; and they rubbed shoulders with notables of society, the stage and the screen. The night they supped at Texas Guinan's they had a table next to Peggy Hopkins Joyce and her current admirer, and saw before they left, at 4 o'clock in the morning, Marjorie Rambeau, Carl Van Vechten and his wife, Sonia Marinoff, George Jean Nathan, Vincent Astor and one of the Vanderbilt heiresses with a suitor. None of these they would have recognized had not the exurberant and raucous La Guinan shouted out the names, attached to some bit of her humor. On another night, at Ciro's, they saw Richard Barthlemess, but Laurel didn't need to have him identified.

This manner of existence was like wine to Laurel. She felt as if she never before lived.

At luncheon at the Crillon on the day of the Buckmaster affair, Noble asked to be excused for the afternoon.

"There are some old acquaintances I really shouldn't neglect," he explained, "and I thought there might be some place you would like to go alone."

She regarded him doubtfully. "Very well, dear."

"You may take the motor, of course. I'll be at the hotel not later than six-thirty. We won't want to be at the Buckmaster's before eight."

"All right, dear." She wondered if these old acquaintances" were women. He had mentioned the names of other persons he had gone to see without her. Perhaps he was bored and wanted to spend the afternoon alone. She studied him furtiively as they finished the meal.

"Can I drop you off somewhere?" she suggested as they were waiting for the doorman to page their motor.

"No, it isn't far, and I'll walk."

She saw him move away on foot as her car left the place She was seized with an impulse to follow him, just to see where he went. She might have done so had not her motor became entangled in a traffic jam out of which there seemed no exit.

"Along Fifth Avenue,' she had instructed the chauffeur. She had no idea of what she wanted to do. A glimpse of shop windows along the thoroughfare decided her. She wanted to walk along and look into them all. At 53rd street she signalled the driver to turn. "Just wait here, or return in—in an hour," she said, as he drew up at the curb.

In an hour she had not returned to the waiting motor car. Nor in an hour and a half. Feeling like one set down in the midst of the wonder of old Bagdad, she was drinking deeply of the exhilaration of moving about among all the treasures of the world—jewels, precious metals, silks, tapestries, paintings, rare books, sculptured beauties. She wandered into the great departments tores that occupies all of the block from Forty-ninth to Fiftieth street, and in its grown salon saw the afternoon mannequin parade. One model captivated her. It had some of the feeling of an evening gown, but had the long, transparent sleeves that declared it an afternoon frock. The material was soft black crepe, with black chiffon sleeves ending in cuffs of the crepe, and with lovely embroidery in shades of purple and green ornamenting the bodice. It was just the thing for her particular figure.

She opened her purse, knowing that there was no more than ten dollars in it, and regarded the amount. Noble had given her no money; and he had not spoken of an allowance. On the trip he had spent money like a king. In one of the night clubs, she noticed that his tip to the waiter was ten dollars. She could, she knew, have the frock sent to the hotel C. O. D. But she hesitated. She was afraid that it was too soon for her to begin buying clothing at his expense. They had been married lesa than two weeks, and her trousseau, with its ten gowns and frocks, was supposed to be complete. Reluctantly she left the salon. A clock over the elevator made it known, to her consternation, that it was five o'clock.

It was the parade hour—the "cocktail hour"—and the sidewalks were swelled with strutting humanity. She had difficulty in making her way the five blocks to the spot where she had left teh motor. The chauffeur was reading a newspaper. She smiled as he held the door open for her, to atone for the extra two-hour wait. He was young and, she thought, handsome.

Noble was off schedule, too. Instead of being back at the hotel at six-thirty, as he had promised, he came in at five minutes after seven. Laurel ran to him in her dressing gown like a scared child when she heard him enter the parlor of the suite.

"I was afraid something had happened to you," she exclaimed, snuggling up to him.

"I'm sorry I was delayed,' he said, a little hoarsley.

Laurel drew back. Liquor! And—

She looked again.

On a shoulder of his dark suit coat there was a dim white blur.

She drew close to him again, her eyes searching his. The blur was powder, and its odor made its origin unmistakable.

Accidents will Happen

YOU hope, and so do we, that you never have to be "towed home" but "accidents will happen." A slippery road and a sharp curve—broken steering gear—or any of many different combinations of unfortunate circumstances may send any one of us off the road—or a broken wheel or a locked rear end may make it necessary to lift up one end or another of the car to bring it to the shop for repairs.

We have a completely equipped emergency car—bear this in mind and remember that this car is at your service day and night. Merely telephone, and it will immediately be sent to your assistance.

Our charges for such service are very low and above all, the fact that our emergency car is equipped with a Manley Crane is your assurance that we will "get your car in" without the danger of further damage, which sometimes happens when a cheap crane or a home-made crane is used.

Advances From Messenger Boy to Bank President

New York.—From an immigrant and a messenger boy to a bank president is the dramatic record of Adolph Koppel, who has been elected by the board of trustees of the Central Savings bank to the presidency of the bank.

Mr. Koppel came to this country in 1871, at the age of sixteen. He had a diversified experience in commercial and banking houses and it was while still a young man, as a junior officer of a title guaranty company, that he used to call on the Central Savings bank with regard to loan matters.

The officers of the bank became so impressed by his ability at figures that he was invited to apply for a position as an officer of the bank. The board of trustees of the bank elected him secretary in July, 1892. In January of the next year he was appointed cashier. In August, 1910, he was appointed treasurer. In April, 1919, he was elected to the board of trustees and subsequently became a vice president.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask Mathews' Medicine Store, or any first class drugist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and further more if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Endured Misery of Piles for Years

In Agony Most All the Time — Writes This Grateful Letter.

202 Carolina street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with the worst case of piles that you can imagine. For years I tried remedy after remedy without obtaining any lasting benefit, and when the Hamadala Pile Tablets were recommended to me I felt it would be only another useless experiment, but I was willing to take another chance, as I had got to where I was in agony about all the time.

After I commenced taking the second box I began to see results, and today I am absolutely cured of my trouble, and have almost forgotten that I ever had the piles. Hamadala Tablets have made a new man of me, and I want to do everything I can to bring them to the attention of those who are suffering as I was.

Very truly yours, W. STEDMON.

The Hamadala treatment is an inexpensive internal constitutional treatment for blind, bleeding or protruding piles that comes in tablet form. It is dispensed under refund guarantee by C. G. Anderson, Carnahan's Drug Stores, J. D. Holloway and good druggists.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28. — Right along with the annual models of automobiles, the yearly blue books and the perenial changes in lengths of women's skirts, come the 1925 all star teams.

In accordance with the regular custom the all-Ohio conference football eleven of the International News Service has been selected from the consensus of the 10 conference coaches as to their selection of the 11 outstanding players for each position in the state title race. This year's team is fully able to hold its own against those aggregations of the past and where a decade or two ago, the flying wedges and line play predominated, the 1925 team can forge ahead in the score by tricky passes and deceptive shifts.

Third Team Strong, Too.

What would be the outcome of a game between the first and second or the first and third all-star outfits would be only a matter of conjecture, for there is sufficient strength on the third eleven to make it feared against any opponent. There are players not named on any one of the three teams that possess the football qualities desirable in a successful star, players such as Homan of Baldwin-Wallace, Bradley of Wittenber, Burwilden and Poe of Oberlin, Zaebst of Badwin-Wallace, Mulvey of Kenyon, Rapp of St. Xavier, Smith of Ohio, Prosser of Denison and others.

It is only fitting that five of the 11 first team men should be from Ohio Wesleyan, whose season record sparkled and who set a mark worth striving toward by themselves or other Ohio conference teams, and strangely enough, Oberlin, which lost no games but was held to a tie, places no one on the first team, for the Oberlin machine was a smoothly working piece of mechanism, which had no outstanding stars, but every one working evenly to make it a success. Of the other six places, a half dozen different universities are placed Miami, Wooster, Western Reserve, Akron, Wittenberg and St. Xavier placing representatives.

Live, Strong and Fast.

From end to end, the line is strong and fast. It shows the ability to charge through and break up the opposition's play before they can be started effectively. The ends are speedy, able to get down under the punts and snare their man. The tackles are adept at blocking off their adversaries and permitting their own backfield to gain on the off-tackel plays, than which there is no more successful ground gainer. There is a tower of strength in the center of the line, able to break through and also to open up holes for the crashed and pivot plays.

Like every other backfield, the positions are almost interchangeable. Each man however, is effective in any of the modern football threats and each is fast enough to be a constant menace from the open game formations.

Sharkey of Miami and Wargo of Akron are place at the flanks. They were the outstanding players of mediocre elevens and it was chiefly through their play that the respective teams were not swamped. Their speed and unerring judgment in diagnosis of play and their willingness to smash the interference so that the defensive back could get the ball carrier stamp them of all star quality.

Robert Tilton of Ohio Wesleyan and Bill West of Western Reserve are given the tackle positions. The former has been a whirling derish of defense, playing his job successfully and helping his end with a regularity. West, a massive man-mountain has had few gains made thru his position and has been the one safe spot in the pioneer line.

McCracken Gets Place.

At guards, Frump of Ohio Wesleyan was almost unanimous choice. He stood out above all the other guards, as he did last year, showing all the factors needed for a peerless lineman. He is fast, heavy enough and a deadly tackler with the added intuition of where a play is going. His partner is Layporte of Wooster, another remarkable player and between them, there would be few gains through the center.

Playing between them is McCracken of Ohio Wesleyan, recently chosen as the most valuable player on the battling bishop's squad. He has played alongside of Frump for three years and this pair, with Layporte working well with them, would be the bulkwark of the line defense.

Beichley Good General.

At quarterback Russell Beichley of Wittenberg is selected. Beichley is a three-year star, perhaps not as sensational as some others, but possessing to an acute stage, the generalship so necessary in a quarterback. He handles the ball and his men well. He is a dangerous runner and an exceptionally good defensive quarterback.

At the halves, Eddie Blickle of Ohio Wesleyan, the new star of the Red and Black, was another extremely popular choice. With him is placed Beatty of St. Xavier. This pair can pass, run and plunge well. On the defense, they are hard and effective tacklers. All season, they have been pre-eminent in diagnosing the play of their adversaries and in blocking it before it got far under way.

Turney at fullback is another outstanding selection, the Ohio Wesleyan star being one of the most consistent ground gainers and the leading scorer in the Ohio conference. In addition to his bone breaking line plunges, he is a capable man around the ends and as the end thrower or receiver of passes.

The second all-Ohio places three Oberlin men, two Woosters players, and one each from St. Xavier, Denison, Baldwin - Wallace, Miami, Ohio Wesleyan and Kenyon. It's line with Pfeifer and Hastings at ends, Raikula and Gurney at the tackles, Schmidt and Mitchell at guards and Wagner at center is a powerful front, able to bear heavy attacks and to throw opponents for losses with some regularity. It can open up holes and get through to block the defensive backs.

With Siskovic at quarter, the redoubtable Harley Pearce and Stryker at the halves and Peters at full, there is a mighty backfield, powerful in all driving, running and passing plays and perhaps even speedier than the first team backfield.

COLLEGE GRID SEASON AT END

Big Clash of Day is Army-Navy Game in New York.

By GEORGE BARRY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Collegiate football's swan song will be sounded this afternoon. The season will not close officially until the University of Southern California gets a couple of more games out of its system, but the majority of football stadiums will close their doors for the season at nightfall today.

The big game of the day, of course, will be the annual Army and Navy contest at the Polo grounds. However, there are several additional games of more than minor importance to be decided.

Southern California will try to improve its standing in the coast conference by beating Washington State at Los Angeles. The odds are all in favor of the former, which has lost only one game this season and has run up an impressive total of points on its various rivals.

The annual Holy Cross- Boston college game probably lacks its significance of other years, but it might decide the Catholic college championship of eastern football. If Holy Cross can win, the title probably will go to Georgetown by tacit consent, as the latter won from Fordham, which lost to Georgetown by several touchdowns.

The Lehigh-Carnegie Tech game at Pittsburgh looks like a cross country run for the Scotsmen, whose record this year is not unimpressive, in spite of defeats by Pittsburgh and Notre Dame.

Loyola, using the Notre Dame system, will try conclusions with the Haskell Indians at Chicago and an affair of more than ordinary interest should be the outcome. An intersectional game at Dayton, between Bucknell and Dayton and a meeting between South Carolina and Center college will conclude the program for the day.

250,000 See Contests In Buckeye Stadium

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—Breaking all previous records, practically 250,000 spectators witnessed football games at Ohio stadium here this fall, athletic officials at Ohio state university announced today. Last year's attendance totalled 193,000 persons.

NEW YORK NEXT ON RED'S CARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—In anticipation of a wild scramble by local football fans, tickets for "Red" Grange's debut before a New York crowd, December 6, will be placed on sale tomorrow. The Polo Grounds, according to announcement made today by officials of the New York ball club, will seat 67,000 for the event and indications were that every ticket would be sold long before game time. Grange will come here as a member of the Chicago Bears to play a national football league contest against the New York Giants.

STATE CAGERS RESUME WORK

Recruits From Grid Team to Report Next Week.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—After a respite of nearly a week, Ohio State's basketball squad will plunge into intensive training Monday for the forthcoming season. Due to the interruption of the Thanksgiving holiday and with a desire to give the football men a rest after their arduous campaign, Coach Harold G. Olsen presided over but one practice session this week.

Half a dozen or more recruits from the football contingent are expected to report next week for basketball. Chief among them is "Cookie" Cunningham, all-Conference center, who will be entering his third and final varsity campaign in the Big Ten.

"Red" Seiffer, back guard and captain of the current Big Ten champions, will have two if not three new running mates during the coming winter. The Buckeyes, with one of the best teams in Big Ten history last winter, lost three of the five regulars on the championship quintet by graduation. They were Captain "Jake" Cameron, former Captain Johnny Miner and Mel Shaw, forward.

Whether Bill Hunt will be able to report soon is another question that the Buckeyes would like to have answered. Hunt was the first casualty of the football season, sustaining a broken leg. He is out and around again but there is no certainty as to how soon he can stand the basketball pace. He was the sixth man a year ago and his presence would come in handy.

Other members of the football squad who are potential candidates for basketball include Parker Bloser and George Woorlein, from last winter, and Robin Bell and Fred Grim, sophomore.

EARL BRITTON MAY JOIN BEARS

Illinois Star Confers With Pro Team Officials.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Earl Britton, Illinois fullback and chief interferer for Grange for the past three years, conferred with officials of the Chicago Bears, National league professional football team, here today.

Britton, who has just completed his collegiate career, arrived in the city yesterday and immediately took under consideration the Bears' offer to participate in the remaining games of the season as a running mate to Grange.

Nothing could be learned of the conference, but it was rumored today that Britton had accepted terms and would play against Columbus Sunday. Grange and his manager, C. C. Pyle, are said to have been instrumental in getting Britton to join the Bears.

W. V. U. Fresh Win Five

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 28—The West Virginia University Freshmen won five of their nine games this year, defeating Bluefield college, Potomac State school, St. Vincent's college, West Liberty Normal and Glenville Normal, and losing to Pitt Freshmen, W. & J. Freshmen and California Normal.

CADETS ARE FAVORITES BY ONLY SLIGHT MARGIN

West Pointers Expected to Have Better Running Game With Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell Ready to go; Heavy Field, However, Considered Favorable to Weighty Line of Middies.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK Nov. 28.—They say the shot at Sarajevo rang around the World but there will be a whistle at the Polo Grounds this afternoon that will find an echo in Port Said, Honolulu, Singapore and Fort Wayne, Ind. It will be the whistle that will start and finish the annual Army and Navy football game.

Somewhere in the South seas, a lonely navy officer on a lonely destroyer will hear its shrill music and will throb to its sound. Somewhere in an isolated army post, an officer will snap to attention at its echo. It has been so almost since time immemorial.

As a matter of fact, it started back in 1899 and the boys have been at it ever since, barring a cessation during the late unpleasantness in Europe. It happens to be the big moment and the last moment in collegiate football and the occasion is worth a series of typographical shouts from any man's typewriter.

Will Be Colorful Squad.

Somehow, it has come to be the custom to sob journalistic tears over the spectacle of the Army grey and the Navy blue and the writer is a slave to precedent. In fact, he can out-sob the next, if need be.

Therefore, be it known to all men by these presents: That the Army and Navy will meet in this greatest of all spectacles for the twenty-eighth time with the full, complete and entire corps of both academies in the stands. The writer wishes to use the exclusive announcement that they will be in uniform and it is his exclusive understanding that they will march on the field before the game. He would hate to be wrong about either statement.

Of course, a nice time will be had by all. Fair weather, with a heavy gridiron from recent rains, was forecast and upward of 60,000 of the dear, old populace, including Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, will view the proceedings. There would be more people present if it wasn't for the fact that the man who built the Polo Grounds used concrete instead of India rubber for the walls, with a reprehensible lack of foresight or something.

Navy Goat Breaks Loose.

The Army was the slightest kind of a favorite but Navy men took heart from the fact that their goat broke loose on Broadway last night and nosed an innocent bystander through the window of a Greek restaurant. This was supposed to be the most favorable kind of an omen. The last time the Navy lost, the goat aimed for the window of a Greek restaurant and hit a coal wagon full of rubber match sticks.

The Army was favored, however, because it seemed to have the better record and it was none too good, at that. It lost two games this year to Yale and Columbia and the Navy lost only one but while it was about it, a thoroughgoing job was made of the position. Michigan won the game in question by a mere matter of 54 to 0. One of the worst disasters, competitively speaking, in Navy history.

Otherwise, however, the Navy record was fool-proof and the boys were inclined to state that the Michigan thing was something of a vast mistake. There were all kinds of rumors around town today of a great Navy running attack, developed under cover at Annapolis, and a fine passing play from Shapley to Flippin and vice versa.

Battle Will Be Close.

The Army also was supposed to have a commendable command of the overhead game and undoubtedly figured to have the better of the running game with such backs as Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell ready to go. However, the heavy condition of the field not only figured to hamper these excellent young men but also favored the Navy line, which was much heavier than the Army's.

There was a possibility that either or both would score from the field, the Army in particular having a youth, Reeder by name and accurate by nature, who was said to be infallible inside the 40 yard line. The trick, of course, was to bet inside the 40 yard line in the first place.

The game, as a matter of fact, figured to be the closest of recent years and nearly all Army and Navy affairs are closer than a pair of nostrils. Just by way of showing how these archrivals play each other, the series stood thirteen victories for the Army, twelve for the Navy and two games ended in a tie.

CLOSE OPTIONS ON STATE PARK

Acquire 500 Acres of Land Near Guilford Dam.

Options on the tract of some 500 acres of land in Hanover township, to be included in the proposed Guilford state park, are now being closed by a representative of the state department of highways and public works.

In a bill, passed at the last session of the legislature, approximately $31,500 was appropriated for the purchase of the necessary land. While the bill became a law during the summer, the state highway department failed to act on the options which they held until this month.

Money has been provided to close up the gaps in the dam in order to make the proposed fish hatchery, sponsored by officials of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, a realty. It is believed that these improvements will be started early next spring.

Several cottages probably will be erected at Guilford next year. A number of residences were built last summer after the state park became a certainty. A group of sportsmen are said to be planning the erection of a summer hotel, which would have rooming accommodations for about 25 persons.

The county commissioners are expected to improve the road from the county home to the park within the near future.

Court Will Pass Upon Will of Late Mrs. Mary Martin

Mrs. Myrtle Risinger, of East Liverpool, through her counsel, Attorney B. H. Cochran and Lones, Hill & Davidson, has entered an action in common pleas court at Lisbon to determine whether the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Headley Martin, of this city, admitted to probate October 26, was the last made by the deceased.

The petition declares that Mrs. Martin was survived by no husband or children at the time of her death and that Mrs. Risinger and other plaintiffs in the petition are children of Harrison Headley, now deceased, who was a brother of Mary Headley Martin.

In a will bearing the date of July 18, 1925, which was probated shortly after Mrs. Martin's death, the estate is bequeathed to Caroline Cook and others. The plaintiff claims that another will of a more recent date exists.

CLOSE OPTIONS ON STATE PARK

Acquire 500 Acres of Land Near Guilford Dam.

Options on the tract of some 500 acres of land in Hanover township, to be included in the proposed Guilford state park, are now being closed by a representative of the state department of highways and public works.

In a bill, passed at the last session of the legislature, approximately $31,500 was appropriated for the purchase of the necessary land. While the bill became a law during the summer, the state highway department failed to act on the options which they held until this month.

Money has been provided to close up the gaps in the dam in order to make the proposed fish hatchery, sponsored by officials of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association, a realty. It is believed that these improvements will be started early next spring.

Several cottages probably will be erected at Guilford next year. A number of residences were built last summer after the state park became a certainty. A group of sportsmen are said to be planning the erection of a summer hotel, which would have rooming accommodations for about 25 persons.

The county commissioners are expected to improve the road from the county home to the park within the near future.

Court Will Pass Upon Will of Late Mrs. Mary Martin

Mrs. Myrtle Risinger, of East Liverpool, through her counsel, Attorney B. H. Cochran and Lones, Hill & Davidson, has entered an action in common pleas court at Lisbon to determine whether the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Headley Martin, of this city, admitted to probate October 26, was the last made by the deceased.

The petition declares that Mrs. Martin was survived by no husband or children at the time of her death and that Mrs. Risinger and other plaintiffs in the petition are children of Harrison Headley, now deceased, who was a brother of Mary Headley Martin.

In a will bearing the date of July 18, 1925, which was probated shortly after Mrs. Martin's death, the estate is bequeathed to Caroline Cook and others. The plaintiff claims that another will of a more recent date exists.
